Hope To Restore Aid Slash

Truman States Situation is Serious After Reds Buildup

By D. Harold Oliver

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 —(AP)— President Truman said today the Congressional effort to cut $1,000,000,000 from his $8,500,000,000 foreign aid request is misplaced economy when success of the program is in sight.

The president told a news conference that prospects of restoring the proposed cut looked rather hopeless and it is a very serious situation. He also told reporters:

1. United Nations forces in Korea are stronger now than when the Kaesong truce talks began.

2. The case of William N. Oatis, AP correspondent imprisoned in Czechoslovakia on spy charges, will never be closed until the reporter gets out of jail.

Asked if he intended to do anything more to win approval of his entire foreign aid proposal, the president said he has done all he possibly can. He added the situation looks rather hopeless now.

He said the administration at the outset in 1947 figured at least $17,000,000,000 would be needed over four years to help Europe stave off Red aggression, and so informed Congress.

He said his last request for economic aid (it accounted for $2,000,000,000 of the $8,500,000,000 sum asked) would bring the total to date for European recovery up to $14,500,000,000. He then went on to say it is a pity to upset the whole applecart in the interest of misplaced economy, just on the verge of success.

He contended the economic improvement of western Europe would be immensely aided under the full program. He added it also is needed to speed the rearming of Europe.

Carry Out Mandates

Asked about proposals to take the administration of part of the program out of the hands of Secretary of State Acheson, the president said it is the business of the chief executive to carry out the mandates of Congress and that is the way it will be done.

He was asked if U.N. forces are stronger now than before the truce talks began in Korea. He replied they certainly are and added he is 100 per cent behind Gen. Matthew Ridgway's statements on the Korean situation. Ridgway is U.N. commander in Korea.

The Oatis question came up in connection with a statement yesterday by the new Czech ambassador, Vladimir Prochazka, that the Oatis case is closed as far as the Czech courts are concerned. The president replied firmly that it will never be closed until Oatis is out of jail, at least as far as this country is concerned.

The president would not comment on the nation-wide copper strike, pending receipt of a report on negotiations from the Wage stabilization board.

Once again, Mr. Truman refused to be drawn out on his 1952 political intentions.

A reporter brought up a mid-west poll showing the president's popularity is on the upgrade. The president replied polls go up and down and some people are disappointed with the results.

Asked if he intended soon to continue correspondence with the president of Russia regarding friendship between the American and Russian people, he said he meant what he said recently on this score, but that there is no hurry about it. He said such things have to be done very deliberately.

Sign Pact With Philippines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—(AP)— The United States and the Philippines today bound themselves together in a new defense pact pledging each to help the other fight aggression.

Speaking at the signing ceremony, President Truman called the treaty a "strong step towards security and peace in the Pacific."

"It demonstrates to all nations that we intend to continue our common course and to work together in the future, as we have in the past, for peace for all mankind," Mr. Truman said.

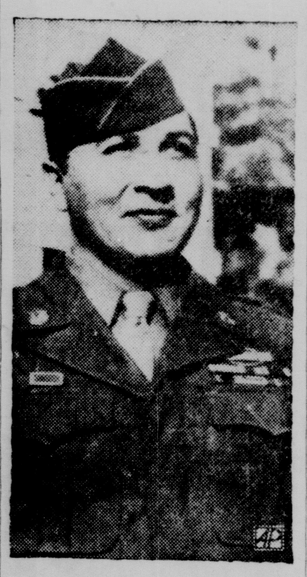
The colorful signing ceremony took place in the inter-departmental auditorium and brought together top leaders of both the United States and the Philippines.

The treaty, pledging the U. S. and Philippines to come to each other's aid to meet common danger, is the first of a series of defense agreements designed to shore up Pacific defenses against Communist aggression.

The others, with Japan and with New Zealand and Australia, are to be signed in the next two weeks.

Philippine President Elpidio Quirino said that while the new treaty has "unavoidable connotations of military action" it is "wholly dedicated to peace and to the methods of peace."

Burial Halted



Burial in Arlington National cemetery was ordered Aug. 29 for the body of Sgt. John R. Rice (above) of Winnebago, Neb. His burial in a Sioux City, Iowa, cemetery was halted Aug. 28 because he was not a Caucasian. The Indian, a member of the Winnebago tribe, was killed in the Korea fighting. President Truman later ordered interment in Arlington. (AP Wirephoto)

Hoover in Iowa Address

Assails the 'Evil-doers' in Des Moines Speech

DES MOINES, Aug. 30 — (AP) — Herbert Hoover declared today this nation is experiencing "a cancerous growth of intellectual dishonesty in public life which is mostly beyond the law."

"These evils," the country's only living former president warned in a belated birthday address, "have defeated nations many times in human history. The redemption of mankind by American will depend upon our ability to cope with these evils right here at home.

"In its frustration, the Congress is groping for some sort of code of ethics which might protect the citizen from his own officials. Much as Congress has by good wishes, something stronger than a new code of ethics is needed in America.

"Congress can well widen the laws so as to clutch the new kinds of bribes and benefits they have discovered. But Congress cannot reach intellectual dishonors."

But, he told residents of his native state in accepting an award, right with triumph "because I know America is turning its face away from the maudlin left isms and the spread of untruths of the past two decades.

The nation's elder statesmen this year deferred his customary birthday address until today. He had said it would contain his thoughts for his 77th birthday, August 10.

Honor Not Exclusive

The former Republican president did not specifically mention the Democratic administrations which followed his own. Although he cited numerous happenings since he left the White House, he said near the start:

"Let me say at once that honor is not the exclusive property of any political party."

Hoover reviewed many incidents, then commented repeatedly "Think about it." He said: "Our greatest danger is not from invasion by foreign armies. Our dangers are that we may commit suicide from within by complaisance with evil. Or by public tolerance or scandalous behavior. Or by cynical acceptance of dishonor."

Turning to what he termed "the flight from honor," Hoover said, "During the recent past we have had a flood of exposures by congressional committees, by state legislatures, by grand juries in scores of cities, and the press."

He said he sometimes wonders what the "founding fathers" would say about: "The five per centers, mink coats, deep freezers, and free hotel? Or favoritism in government loans and government contracts?

"Or failures to prosecute evil-doers who spread cancerous rackets and gambling rings with their train of bribed officials? Or of those who coquette with traitorship? Or of secret and disastrous commitments of our nation which were denied at the time?"

Train Hits Truck Scattering Autos

HIGH HILL, Mo., Aug. 30—(AP) —A Wabash freight train smashed into a stalled automobile transport truck yesterday, scattering new cars along the right of way almost a mile.

Frank Clark Motter, 26, of Bryan, Ohio, the truck driver, told highway patrolmen he shifted into low gear to cross the tracks on a gravel road near this Montgomery county town. But his trailer stuck on the tracks and he couldn't move it forward or backward.

Moter jumped free when the locomotive hit and was not hurt. Lester R. Allen of Moberly was the engineer.

The patrol estimated damage to the truck and its load of four automobiles at $8,000.

Dr. Lamy in Address to Lions Club

Physician Discusses Missouri's Problem On Medical School

Dr. John E. Lamy, well-known local physician, was the principal speaker at the Sedalia Lions Club meeting held at the Old Missouri Homestead, Wednesday night. Dr. Lamy used as his subject, "Four-Year Medical Institution for Missouri." During the meeting four new members were presented membership certificates, and 26 members were presented hundred per cent attendance pins.

Dr. Lamy was introduced by Chris Moore, program chairman. In his talk he stressed the need of a four-year medical school in Missouri, explaining there was a definite shortage of doctors in Missouri, especially in the rural areas.

Location the Big Problem

"The question is 'Where to put it?' There are two choices, Columbia and Kansas City," Dr. Lamy said. Continuing, he said, "The requirements for a doctor are rigid, and the school should be located where prospective doctors can get the best in laboratory experience, especially when doctors must study and practice their internship."

He went on to explain it is necesary to have a large hospital, where there are many charity patients. Charity patients, he said, are the best people to work with in medicine, as they welcome the study of doctors while the patient who can pay his way shies from being a subject of study.

"The charity patient who is used for the study seems to have his ego bolstered with the attention given by the student doctors. They show co-operation, make it easier for the doctor of tomorrow to get the best out of his practice, and at the same time receive excellent treatment.

Large City the Best Spot

"Hospitals needed for this study cannot be located in small communities, but must be located in larger cities where they have the type of patients mentioned," Dr. Lamy said.

Dr. Lamy reviewed the resignation of Dr. Trawick H. Stubbs, dean of the University of Missouri medical school. He explained that Dr. Stubbs' letter of resignation indicated he would reveal why Missouri would not have a four-year medical college under the present University Administration. But Dr. Lamy did not say what Dr. Stubbs would reveal, nor did he have any knowledge what was forthcoming.

In closing Dr. Lamy indicated that something must be done other than what is being done at the present time, or Missouri never would have the vitally needed institution.

New members presented membership certificates by President Harold Seaburg were Dr. Morrison E. Walters, dentist; Don King, of Archias Floral Co.; James Langridge, Boy Scout Field Executive; and Ken Fallis, manager of the Goodyear Store in Sedalia. Two other new members who were unable to be present were Al Dominque, Phillips 66, and Ed Kirk, manager of Highway-50 Drive-In theatre.

Guests at the meeting were Don Berry, St. Louis of Lloyd Phillips and Harold Barrick, Sedalia, of C. W. Stephenson.

List of 100 Percenters

One-hundred per cent attendance pins were presented by President Seaberg to Past-President Kenneth Buchholtz, Cline Cain (his twelfth straight pin), Bob Cain, Frank Deady, James Durley, John Ellison, Ed. Smith, Muriel Vaughn, A. W. Haller (a past president), Virgil Herrick, George James (his twelfth pin), Dr. F. I. Lawrence, Kenneth Leslie, Charles Maggard, James McNeil, Bernard Stanfield, A. B. Warren, E. O. "Jack" Pasley, Lloyd Phillips, Joe Ruddick, Abe Silverman, James Van Wagner, President Seaberg, Paul McMullin, and D. Kelly Scruton, past district governor.

It was announced the next Board of Directors meeting will be held at the Bothwell hotel on Thursday night, September 13.

Daniels' Guess Good as Any

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—(AP)— President Truman said today that Jonathan Daniels didn't consult him before predicting Mr. Truman will seek reelection and win. But the President again refused to disclose his 1952 intentions.

The President was told that Daniels, editor of the Raleigh, (N.C.) News and Observer, had "sensed" that he would run and ventured his own opinion that Mr. Truman would get a minimum of 419 electoral votes. A majority of the 531 electoral votes are required for election.

The President good humoredly replied than any American citizen is entitled to his opinion. As for himself, he said, he is not expressing his.

He said Daniels didn't consult him. But then he added:

His guess is as good as anybody's.

A reporter wanted to know if the President thought Daniels' article, published in a magazine, was based on "reportorial instinct" as Mr. Truman had described a previous article by Daniels. Daniels is a close friend and Democratic national committeeman.

The President said yes, it was the same kind of case, exactly.

Further Inspect Flood Area

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 — (AP) — President Truman said today he plans another inspection of flood damage in Missouri when he goes to Kansas City next Wednesday.

He told a news conference he wants to make the survey both by automobile and afoot. He added he probably will walk three or four miles in connection with his inspection.

The President also will be able to look over the damage from the air as he flies in to Missouri.

He made a flying inspection during the flood a few weeks ago.

Mr. Truman is going to Missouri from San Francisco where he will speak Tuesday night at the opening of the Japanese peace treaty conference.

He said he will make an off-the-cuff speech Thursday at the dedication of a new reserve armory in Kansas City.

Two Intended Victims Slain

Ortis-Vargas, One Was a Professor Of Languages

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 30—(AP)— Richard B. Donaldson, slayer of two persons, was arraigned today on two counts charging first degree murder.

He was ordered held without bond pending his preliminary hearing which was set for September 13.

Asked by Magistrate Bernard Gnefkow how he wished to plead, Donaldson said "guilty." However, the magistrate informed him that the only way he could plead guilty would be to waive a preliminary hearing. He then said he wished a hearing.

KANSAS City, Aug. 30—(AP)—A youthful businessman shot to death two persons, including a university professor, yesterday and told police he intended to kill five others and then commit suicide.

He said he was "mad at them" and "just disgusted."

Police said Richard Barry Donaldson, 29-year-old laundry operator, admitted the slayings in a signed statement.

Dead were Alfredo Ortiz-Vargas, 53, assistant professor of foreign languages and literature at the University of Kansas City, and Mrs. Elzia Lay, 77-year-old Negro.

Two of the intended victims escaped death because Donaldson's pistols misfired. Two others were not at home and the fifth did not answer her door when Donaldson appeared.

The laundry operator started his journey of death in a taxicab, stopping at several different places.

Donaldson told officers that in addition to Ortiz-Vargas and Mrs. Lay ,he intended to kill his former mother-in-law, an aunt, a son of Mrs. Lay, his landlady and her brother.

Donladson said Ortiz-Vargas owned an interest in his self-service laundry and they quarreled over financial matter.

The professor was shot down in his eighth floor suite of the Twin Oaks apartments. Four bullets were pumped into his body.

Donaldson, a university graduate, was a former student of the professor.

Mrs. Lay was killed in her apartment above Donaldson's laundry as she reached into the refrigerator for a cool drink of water. She was shot twice in the back.

"She was little and old, and I figured two shots would be enough," Donaldson told police.

He said he was angry at the Lay family because they had him arrested recently on a peace disturbance charge.

Killed as Auto Overturns

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30—(AP)—Harvey Hedrick, 30, St. Louis, was killed yesterday when his automobile went out of control and overturned near DeSoto, Mo.

Hedrick was riding alone. He died at a hospital in Bonne Terre, Mo.

Calls Anew For Freedom For Oatis

Sen. Jenner In Accusation That Czechs 'Defy'

By Karl R. Bauman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—(AP)— Senator Jenner (R-Ind.) today accused the new Czechoslovakian ambassador to Washington of "defying" this government. And he called anew upon the government to take "all proper steps" to effect release of William N. Oatis from a Czech prison.

Jenner's remarks were prompted by a statement of Ambassador Vladimar Prochazka yesterday that Communist Czechoslovakia "will not yield" to American economic, political or propaganda pressure to free Oatis.

Oatis, Associated Press correspondent in Prague, was convicted by a Czech court of espionage and sentenced to five to ten years in prison. The U. S. government has called the charges baseless and said the trial was a farce.

Jenner said that Prochazka's evident refusal to discuss the case freely with officials here amounted to defiance to the U.S. government.

Senator Benton (D-Conn.), in a separate interview, called the Czech attitude "a very unhappy and tragic impasse."

After a 30-minute conference with Secretary of State Acheson yesterday, Prochazka told reporters "the case is closed." The Czech embassy later phoned the Associated Press to say the ambassador said "from a juridical point of view the case is closed."

Reporters heard him make no such qualification, but the acknowledged he might have done so. Some 50 reporters, photographers and newsreel men were milling around.

"Mr. Oatis was tried by our court of justice and sentenced not because of his activities as a reporter," the ambassador said, "but for his activities which transgressed those of a reporter."

He declined comment when asked if that remark meant there was no chance of obtaining Oatis' freedom. He also replied "no comment" To most other questions about the case.

Pleasantries Lacking

As in his meeting with President Truman the day before to present his credentials, Prochazka's conference with Acheson lacked the usual pleasantries of such occasions.

The State Department said, for example, that Acheson didn't offer to shake hands with the new ambassador, but merely showed him a seat.

The department added that Prochazka was called in by Acheson "for a frank and thorough discussion of the Oatis case and related problems of United States-Czechoslovakia relations."

Acheson took occasion to stress the aroused feeling of the American people and the government at the "arbitrary and unjust treatment" of Oatis and other Americans, the department said.

By way of emphasizing sentiment here, Acheson handed Prochazka copies of resolutions adopted by the House and Senate calling for a break in trade relations with Czechoslovakia until Oatis is freed.

Jenner said it was "an outrage that the American government isn't able to protect its own citizens wherever they may be."

"The main thing is to effect Oatis' release," Jenner commented. "All proper steps should be taken to this end."

Benton called Oatis "an innocent victim" of Communist-line propaganda. The Checks, he said, made Oatis a symbol of what the Reds call America's warmongering press.

"Having made Oatis a victim of their own propaganda," Benton commented, "they have jockeyed themselves into a position—got themselves so far out on a limb—that they don't know how to retreat."

Women Intensify Efforts To Get Guardsmen Back

MOBERLY, Mo., Aug. 30—(AP)— Servicemen's wives are gaining momentum in their campaign to get their husbands released from overseas duty and sent home.

Mrs. Ben M. Classen, laeder of the movement in Moberly, said women at Fulton, Columbia and Jefferson City plan to hold mass meetings tonight.

The women's husbands are members of the 175th military police battalion in Germany. It is a Missouri National Guard unit and is composed of World War II veterans who were recalled to active duty a year ago.

The wives complain that draftees are being released by the army faster than the reservists.

Mrs. Classen said she and two other Moberly women conferred two hours yesterday with Col. A. D. Sheppard, assistant adjutant general, in Jefferson City.

Might Call FBI

She quoted the colonel as saying the FBI might be called into the case because the women were "undermining the morale of the armed services."

Sheppard also told them, Mrs. Classen said, that the older, more experienced men were needed as the backbone of the unit and that it was impossible to release them all at once.

He said the women would "get nowhere" with a demonstration they have considered staging at the adjutant general's office, possibly tomorrow.

Mrs. Classen said the Moberly delegation met yesterday with Mrs. Howard Blattner of Fulton, wife of the commanding captain of Company B in the battalion; Mrs. Nellie Keel at Columbia and Mrs. Agnes Brashear at Jefferson City.

Mrs. Classen said women in the three cities promised full cooperation in writing letters of protest to congressmen and to Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense.

At Springfield the wives of 14 members of the 106th Ordnance company now in Korea, renewed their demonstrations in front of the armory. Some were accompanied by their children and some carried placards, urging release of the guardsmen on the same basis as those in the enlisted reserve corps.

Mrs. Roland Davis, spokesman for the group, said one of the women had received a letter from her husband reading:

"One of the boys got a letter from Dewey Short (Sixth District congressman) of Missouri and he

Hot Weather in State to Linger

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 30—(AP)— More hot weather is in store for Missouri.

The mercury which hit the high 90s over most of the state Wednesday, is expected to go even higher today and Friday.

However the extreme northwest is expected to get some relief in thundershowers late today and tomorrow.

Among the hot spots in the state yesterday were Springfield with a 99; West Plains and Joplin 98; Kansas City, Columbia and St. Joseph 97; Rolla 94; Kirksville 93 and St. Louis 92.

J. R. Lloyd, chief weather forecaster, said the cool front approaching from the northwest had plenty of depth and he looked for general relief by the week-end.

Some Prices May Go Up If Law Changed

Wilson Gives a Warning as to Inflation Fear

By G. Milton Kelly

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—(AP)— Price Stabilizer Michael V. Disalle said today some prices may go up even if Congress changes the economic controls law as President Truman requests.

But, he told the Senate banking committee, elimination of the three provisions which Mr. Truman has bitterly denounced would give the Office of Price Stabilization a "workable program."

Disalle and Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson were lead-off witnesses in the administration's drive for repal of the provisions. These make possible price boosts for manufacturers and dealers and ban livestock slaughter quotas.

Wilson warned of mounting inflationary pressures and appealed to the senators for "the strongest and most effective law you can give us."

Disalle said he wished he could promise the OPS could "guarantee an absolute stability of prices for the next year" if the controversial sections are repealed.

Seek Sound Program

"But . . . an absolute holding of the price line may not be possible," he said. "Some cost increases are bound to occur. . . .

"Repeal of these provisions will not provide us with a perfect price control law, but it will give us an act under which we can move forward with a sound and workable stabililization program."

He said a key point is restoration of the right to set slaughtering quotas on livestock.

Wilson, in urging changes, said that "new and serious problems" of shortages and inflation lie ahead.

"Any formula which results in prices higher than the 'fair and equitable' prices required by the original (Defense Production) act is necessarily inflationary," Wilson told the committee. He added:

"In my opinion, we must do our best to hold the existing price and wage line.

"To do this we need the strongest and most effective law you can give us."

Inflationary pressure will continue to mount, Wilson predicted, as more of the national production is channeled into defense. By the end of this year 15 per cent of the output will go into national security and by next year 20 per cent, he estimated. In some items, half of output will be taken by the military.

"The success of our production program is largely dependent upon effect stabilization," Wilson went on.

"Inflation would stimulate production of non-essential goods. It would increase the cost of the defense program. The value of the dollar would be impaired and the incentive for hard work removed.

"Both production and stabilization are vital to the national security and to the preservation of the free enterprise system. Without both of them we would have no defense and our way of life would be destroyed."

Almost Daily Violations Are Charged

Held Suspect In Burglary

BOONVILLE, Mo., Aug. 30—(AP) —Kenneth E. Heard, 27, Idaho Springs, Colo., was held today on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

At Kansas City, L. V. Boardman, special agent in charge of the FBI, said the complaint was filed August 26 at Bozeman, Mont., and involved a $4,000 burglary at West Yellowstone, Mont.

Heard was arrested late yesterday at Pilot Grove, Mo., 20 miles southwest of here, by Sheriff Leo J. Ross of Cooper county, and Layton Miller, Boonville chief of police. Ross said Heard offered no resistance when the officers found him in a motor car at the side of a road.

In his possession, the officers said, were a diamond ring, and $2,851 in currency. Of the currency, $2,500 was in $100 bills.

Heard was taken to the Cole county jail at Jefferson City to await a hearing before a U.S. commissioner.

Study on the Needs of Roads

Committee at Work on How To Secure Funds

By George Sitterley

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 30—(AP) —A joint legislative committee sat down in a closed session today to write a two-pronged report designed to show.

1. Whether Missouri needs more money to improve and extend its highway system.

2. And if so, where in the world is the money for such a program coming from?

Those questions have knotted the legislature — and the tate's voters into unsettled battle for several years. Members of the committee say they hope they can come up with the answers this time.

But they don't expect to do the Kinney (D) of St. Louis, chairman of the committee, said it "sure would be nice," but he held little hope. He figured it would take more than one day.

"It depends on the members," he said. "It's going to be awful hot today and they might be in a bad mood."

Several of the 20 legislative members of the committee —ten House members and ten Senators —expressed this viewpoint.

The Trucking Issue

The way things stand now even strongly punitive truck legislation could be passed by the legislature and the people would approve it if it was referred to them.

They said it looked like the truckers had lost on that score because of recent reports of their lobbyist activities. Whether the reports are true or not the truck operators have come out second best

On the other hand, the truckers may have a whip hand over any legislative effort to hike their operating fees substantially.

A companion proposal, to boost the state gasoline tax from two to three cents, might have tough sledding in a referendum election.

The voters slammed a gas tax proposal to three to one defeat in a similar election a little over a year ago. That was Gov. Forrest Smith's proposal to double the present two cent tax.

The people might be willing to vote a big hike for the truckers but they might still refuse to okay a gas tax boost — a boost that would hit them in the pocketbooks, the legislators said.

So, if the legislature decided to crack down too hard on truck fees, committee members suggested, the truckers might retaliate by seeking referendum defeat of the gas tax hike.

That would still leave the governor's proposed road program just half complete.

And some members of the committee still aren't sure the governor really wants a hike in taxes They say, as they've said again and again this year, the governor just wants to run for U. S. senator in 1952 as the man who tried to improve Missouri's roads but failed because of the elfish interference of special interests.

At any rate, don't look for a final committee report today.

Anniverary of Huey Long's Birthday

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 30 —(AP)—Louisiana observed the birthday anniversary today of the late Huey P. Long—governor and U. S. Senator.

Long was shot to death in the state capitol here Sept. 8, 1935, and his assassin was slain by Long's body guards.

Ridgway Accused Of Lies. To Not Reopen Inquiry On Bombings

By Don Huth

TOKYO, Aug. 30—(AP)— Red China's official Peiping radio charged today American planes violate the Kaesong neutrality area in Korea nearly every day.

The charge was injected into a series of broadcasts accusing Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway of lying, slander and distortion.

The latest asserted violation was early Wednesday. The badly garbled broadcast heard in Tokyo said an American bomber dropped a flare over the site of the now suspended Korean war truce talks.

The radio said it happened at almost the same time Ridgway flatly refused to repoen an investigation of Red charges that an allied plane bombed Kaesong Aug. 22.

Peiping called it an attempt "to cover up the flagrant lies that he handed the world."

The broadcast made no mention of the U.N. commander's offer to resume truce negotiations any time the Communists are willing to do so. He made the offer in the same note that refused to reopen investigation of the asserted bombing.

No Reply Received

Top Red commanders, to whom the message was addressed, had not replied. There was no indication when they would.

In its sweeping accusation, the Peiping radio said as many as 43 American planes had flown over the Kaesong neutral zone in a single day. The netural area extends for a five mile radius around Kaesong.

"American aircraft," the broadcast asserted, "have incessantly, illegally and constantly flown into the sky over the neutral zone."

The radio devoted most of its attention to attacking Ridgway.

The Communist attitude tended to support a theory the Reds want to delay a decision on Korea until after the Japanese treaty conference in San Francisco.

Peiping's broadcasts dampened a cautious optimism expressed in a press release from General Ridgway's headquarters.

The release suggested the Red proposal to reinvestigate the Kaesong bombing charge "many contain some hope for resumption" on truce talks. Communists broke off negotiations Aug. 23, a few hours after they said a U.N. plane bombed Kaesong.

The Red broadcasts said Ridgway's latest note on the incident "again distorted facts" and was "full of contradictions because he is lying."

It particularly assailed his statement that a Red liaison officer refused a request for a daylight investigation.

"On he one hand he slanders our side as refusing to conduct a reinvestigation," the radio said, "and on the other stubbornly refuses our request for a reinvestigation."

The broadcast then asked:

"Why is Ridgway so afraid of investigation, like a criminal afraid of his final trial? Ridgway's liaison officer has said that investigation in the dark of night could not be (held). Why then does Ridgway insist on relying on unreliable investigation, and yet refuse to make further reliable investigation?"

Ridgway's headquarters has observed that the lapse of time between the original investigation, around midnight Aug. 22, and the Red offer Tuesday to make a new investigation allowed the Com-

Floods Cause Deficit For Missouri Pacific

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30—(AP)— The Missouri Pacific railroad has announced that the floods in Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri left it with a $817,399 deficit in July compared with a net income of $1,836,184 for July last year.

The railroad said the deficit was due to cost of rehabilitation of washed out lines and loss and diversion of traffic.

About two-thirds of the human body is made up of water.

St. Louis Folks Find Weed Double Menace

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30 — (AP) —It's doubly dangerous to let ragweed grow in St. Louis. In the first first place it gives you hay fever.

And secondly, there's a city ordinance which makes it a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum $500 fine—to let any weed grow more than 18 inches tall.

A deputy health commissioner pointed out today that ragweed is from three to 10 feet tall by the time it pollenates.

Grand Jury Indicts Seven Hawaii Reds

HONOLULU, Aug. 30 — (AP) — A federal grand jury today indicted Hawaii labor leader Jack W. Hall and six other accused Communists on a charge of plotting to advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

The indictment linked the seven with Communist party headquarters in New York.

The grand jury unanimously requested federal Judge Delbert E. Metzger, because of the "seriousness of the charges," to increase the $5,000 bail he set for each of the seven.

Mother of Late Recruiter Has Cancer

Pictures of the mother, widow and daughter of the late First. Lt. Bill J. Leverett, who died four years ago from a tonsillectomy in a Kansas City hospital, while stationed in Sedalia as a recruiting officer, appeared in a recent Abilene, Kas., paper, along with an article.

Lt. Leverett's mother, Mrs. Ray Leverett of route 2, Abilene, Kas., is ill with lymphosarcoma, a cancer which afflicts all parts of the body. She is in no pain but is anxious to know about someone else who had had this type of cancer so she might know what to expect.

Mrs. Leverett said she was still enjoying life but she wanted to know how long she would have to get her house in order.

Mrs. June M. Leverett, widow of Lt. Leverett, now makes her home in Washington, D. C., where she works for the Securities Exchange Commission. She had planned a trip to Abilene later but when she learned of her mother-in-law's illness took her daughter, Sally Louise Leverett, to see her grandmother. They were accompanied by Sally's maternal great grandmother, Mrs. Clara Cooper.

Lt. Leverett was in a German prison camp eight months and a son, born while he was overseas, died before he got to see him.

Reminder on Teen-agers Work

Walter W. King, regional director, Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U.S. Department of Labor, reminds employers that the increasing numbers of teenagers on jobs instead of in school increases the necessity of a thorough understanding of the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act. The act prohibits the employment of anyone under 16 during the hours school is in session. A 14 or 15 year old may be employed on certain jobs and under certain restrictions up to three hours per day between the hours of 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. and eight hours other days, but not to exceed 18 hours per week. King emphasized the fact that 16 years is the minimum age on most jobs while 18 years is required for certain jobs designated as hazardous by the secretary of labor. The Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act sets a minimum age of 16 for boys and 18 for girls who work on government manufacture and supply contracts in excess of $10,000.

King urged employers to avoid unintentional violation of the child labor laws by having work permits or age certificates for all workers under 19 whom they expect to employ and to keep such certificates on file. In those cases where a student must work, King urged the employer to cooperate with the high school principal in arranging a balanced work and school program which would enable his young workers to continue their educations. For additional information on child labor laws, contact the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U.S. Department of Labor, Federal Office Building, 911 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo.

States Alleged Bombing Was Witnessed

No Substantiation To Story From Soviet Agency

LONDON, Aug. 30—(AP)—The Communist Daily Worker's correspondent in North Korea declared today he was an eye witness of the alleged Kaesong bombing which United Nations military leaders have denounced as a fake.

The correspondent, Alan Winnington, also gave a play by play account of what he described as the "sham investigation" of the incident carried out by a UN military mission. Winnington is a propagandist for the Chinese Communists. He admits being in their employ.

Winnington's story as distributed by the Soviet news agency Tass, carried no details to substantiate that he and two other newsmen he said were with him actually witnessed the bombing.

Winnington said Wilfred Burchett of the Communist newspaper Ce Soir of Paris and Chu Chu Ping of the Shanghai Takunpo also witnessed the bombing. But Winnington's story dealt entirely with the investigation of the bombing incident. Winnington said all three had signed the following statement:

"We were all less than 200 yards from the place where the bombs fell. We were all within a few feet of Colonels Kinney and Murray (American investigators) during their so-called 'investigation.'

"Notes made at the time are still in our possession.

"We vouch absolutely for the accuracy of the official factual report given by the Chinese and Koreans.

"On arrival at Kaesong some three hours after the bombs dropped, Kinney was informed that aircraft had bombed the conference area and machine-gunned delegates' living quarters.

"Kinney immediately began rapid-fire questions in a very hostile fashion: 'What is the effect of the bombing? How many planes? Who saw planes? Any eye witnesses?'

"Col. Chang, of the Korean delegation replied: 'This will become clear during the investigation.'

"Kinney instructed his assistant to record that no one knew how many planes or bombs.

"About 90 yards from the empty United Nations house was a shallow crater and nearby a crumpled napalm container. Splashes of npalm lay around.

"Kinney sneered: 'Is that a bomb? That could be anything. I have seen enough. I've dropped plenty of bombs myself. That's nothing.'

"He called his interpreter and said: 'Tell them. Tell them. If this is the sort of thing they are going to show us I am getting impatient—very impatient.'

"On a hill tbout 200 yards from the delegation headquarters, Col. Chang pointed to a crater where bomb fins lay embedded. 'What is it?' he asked. 'How did it get there?'

"Kinney: 'You should know better than I.'

"He turned to the bystanders, most of whom had relatives killed by American bombs, and said in a most sneering and hectoring voice: 'Has anyone here ever seen the results of American bombing?' No one replied.

"Ten paces away, near the shrapnel-pitted rock, lay another crater.

"'It's nothing. Let's get back, Jim.' (This to fellow-investigator Colonel Murray.) Murray mumbled: 'We'd better have a look.'

"Col. Chang said: 'We demand that you continue this investigation.'

"'You what?' shouted Kinney. 'Who gave you any rights? You have no right to demand anything'."

Car Damaged as It Hits Bridge

A 1947 Buick sedan, driven by Geraldine Allen, 120 East Third street, was practically demolished about 1:30 a.m. today when it struck the Flat Creek bridge, south of Sedalia on Highway 65. Miss Allen escaped injury.

The car had been in an accident at Broadway and Stewart avenue about 20 minutes earlier when it was in collision with a Yellow Cab, driven by E. E. Schrader, 1712 South Summit. According to report given the police Schrader was preparing to turn onto Stewart when the Buick collided with the cab. The car was driven by Miss Allen at that time according to the investigation made by the police.

According to State Trooper Pete Stohr, the car was being driven south on Highway 65 when the accident occurred at the bridge. The right front portion of the Buick convertible struck the west side and north end of the bridge and practically sheared the front end from under the car, tearing off two wheels and doing several hundred dollars damages to the car.

A highway patrol summons was given the young woman.

Extra Days to Duck Hunters Been Granted

Liberalization is Granted; Bag Limit Increase

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—(AP)—The Interior department today granted the nation's duck-hunters five to 10 extra days of shooting this fall.

Acting Secretary Richard D. Searles, Jr., signed new migratory waterfowl hunting regulations, liberalized because of favorable conditions on the northern breeding grounds throughout the summer.

Albert M. Day, director of the Fish and Wildlife service, said he hoped the longer seasons would "give gunners in every section of the country good opportunities for shooting, regardless of unpredictable weather conditions."

The bag and possession limits for ducks remain the same as last year, but some minor changes for geese were made in two flyways. Hunting seasons for woodcock were unchanged except for the addition of a day or two in a couple of states.

The major changes for this year:

Mississippi flyway (from the eastern borders of Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama to the western borders of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana)—season increased 10 days to provide 45 consecutive days or a split season of 18 days each. This restores a five-day cut imposed last year and gives five additional days. The bag limit for geese was raised from four to five a day or in possession, thus permitting a hunter to kill or possess one additional snow goose or one additional blue goose. The bag limit of four ducks and eight in possession remains unchanged.

Central flyway (westward from Mississippi flyway through Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico)—season increased to 50 days, or a split season of 20 days each, from last year's 45 days or two periods of 18 days. Bag limit of five ducks and 10 in possession unchanged.

Day urged hunters to note that the prohibition against the use of bait has been made more specific than in other years.

In the new regulations, birds may not be taken within half a mile of any place where corn or similar feed is placed or exposed "during or within two weeks prior to the open season."

Day said the two-week overlap will help prevent the luring of waterfowl to an area even after the bait has been consumed.

The standard prohibition against the taking of birds by the use of corn or similar feed has been retained.

The daily shooting hours for ducks, geese, brant and coot remain the same as last year—from half an hour before sunrise to an hour before sunset.

Shooting hours for woodcock will be half an hour before sunrise to sunset, except for variations ordered in New York.

The use of automatic-loading or repeating shotguns capable of holding more than three shells remains prohibited. The plug in such a shotgun must be incapable of being removed without disassembling the gun.

The open seasons and limits:

Mississippi Flyway—Ducks, daily bag limit four, possession limit eight, may include one Wood Duck only. Daily bag for American and Red-breasted Mergansers 25 singly or in the aggregate of both kinds; no possession limit after opening day of the season. Geese, daily bag and possession limits, five, including not more than (a) two Canada Geese or its subspecies, or (b) two White-fronted Geese, or (c) one Canada goose or its subspecies and one White-fronted goose. Coot, daily bag and possession limits, 10.

Arkansas, Nov. 22—Jan. 5; Illinois (except in that part of Alexander county set up in 1947 as a closed area), Indiana and Missouri, Oct 9; Iowa and Michigan, Oct. 12 to Nov. 25.

Woodcock—daily bag limit four, possession limit eight. Alabama and Arkansas, Dec. 1 to Dec. 30; Missouri, Nov. 10 to Dec. 9.

Central Flyway — Ducks, daily bag limit five, possession limit 1. No open season on Wood Ducks in Colorado, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming; in other states, bag or possession limit may include one Wood Duck only. Daily bag for American and Red-breasted Mergansers 25 singly or in the aggregate of both kinds, no possession limit after opening day of the season. Geese, daily bag and possession limits, five, including not more than (a), two Canada geese or its subspecies, or (b), two White-fronted geese, or (c), one Canada goose or its subspecies and one White-fronted goose.

Woodcock — Oklahoma, Dec. 1 to Dec. 30. Daily limit, four; possession limit, eight.

Practice Starts In Big Seven

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 30—(AP)—At least three coaches anxiously studied freshman candidates as the Big Seven conference football squads began fall practice today.

The rookies—eligible for varsity play this season as they were during World War II—are expected to play major roles in the success or failure of teams at Missouri, Iowa State and Kansas State.

Only a surprising number of excellent first year men can spare Don Faurot's Missouri Tigers from their lowest finish in many years.

Abe Stuber's squad at Iowa State appears big enough, but the Cyclone coach insists he's shy of capable manpower.

Kansas State, doormat for the league for years, had a few more than 40 men reporting, among them 17 lettermen.

Nebraska, opening work under Bill Glassford at Curtis, Nebr., likely will call on a number of freshmen as the season progresses. All America Bobby Reynolds, holdovers, and sparkling sophomores will carry the brunt of work, however.

Freshmen likely will have a difficult time making the grade, especially in early season, at Oklahoma. Coach Bud Wilkinson's Sooner squad of about 53 vets and sophomores, includes 18 lettermen.

Coach Jules V. Sikes indicates he will call on freshman talent for considerable work in the middle of his Kansas Jayhawk line, especially on the defense.

At Boulder, Colo., the Colorado Buffaloes, a real darkhorse contender, begin with a suad of about 56 including 21 lettermen.

"Young man! In music we don't count the time 'Hup, two, 'hre-e-e. four'!"

Meyers Key Man On Punt-Pass

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 30—(AP) — Frederick Meyers, a 178-pound sophomore quarterback from Enid, Okla., will be a key man in Army's "punt-pass-and-prayer" football fortunes this fall.

He will be the field general of the Cadets' T-formation maneuvers and Coach Earl (Red) Blaik indicated today the youngster may have to carry a near 60-minute load in every game.

"He is about the only man we have for the spot who can handle the ball and direct a T-attack," Blaik said. "We'll probably use him until he's too tired to play any more, and he'll play on both offense and defense."

Opening of football practice at the military academy yesterday with a small, inexperienced squad just about convinced Army's board of strategy that the feared two-platoon system, as fans know it, is out.

Blaik said he hoped to continue two-ulanton play as much as possible but he may substitute seven men at a time instead of 11. Also he told members of the squad they'd have to equip themselves for both offensive and defensive play.

Blaik who lost virtually his entire varsity squad in the recent exam-cribbing scandal, announced the restyled Army team of 1951 would have to revert to more conservative play.

"We will play position football, more fundamental football," he declared. "That's the kind I coach 15 or 20 years ago.

"We'll rely on the picker, something we haven't had to do for years. We'll be more inclined than ever before to relinquish the ball."

That's the "punt-pass-and-prayer" technique perfected by the late Fielding H. Yost at Michigan back in the early part of the century.

Blaik indicated his boys will kick freely in their own territory—frequently on early downs—and not waste strength trying to bull the ball nu the field.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Some Citizens Misunderstand Motives of the AE Program

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

(Editor's Note — While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by several distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Gordon Dean, chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.)

Gordon Dean

WASHINGTON, August 30 — The other day I received this letter from a lady who lives in a town where I spent a good share of my teen-age years:

"My Dear Mr. Dean:

"I see by the inclosed clipping that the United States is planning new A-bomb tests, and that the purpose is to see whether they have been made more deadly. I take it that, as in the past, the big aim is to scare the daylights out of Russia. She will, of course, go at it with a will, and try to outdo us in this devilish weapons-of-mass-destruction armaments race. Nice business!

I should think that the terrible and disgraceful result of our little exeriment with the A-bomb in Hiroshima and Nagasaki would make men, who call themselves Christian, confine their experiments with atomic energy to the wonderful things that can be done with it to improve life and industry — not destroy them.

"I remember your father here as a courageous and fine sermonizer, Mr. Dean. I think it is too bad for his son to concentrate on the murderous aspects of atomic energy."

This was a disturbing letter to receive, not because the lady is right — because she isn't — but rather because it shows that there are apparently honest, patriotic, thinking Americans who fear we are not justified in trying to maintain and increase our world leadership in the field of atomic energy.

I don't know how many people in the United States share the views of this lady. I hope there are not many, for they are just exactly the views the men in the Kremlin are asking the world to believe about us, and which they would dearly like to have us begin to believe about ourselves.

To hold the belief, even for a moment, that the Soviet leaders are in the atomic bomb business just because we are, is one of the worst possible mistakes we could make. These men do not do things because we have done something first to stimulate them. They do things because they believe their own interests are best served by doing them, and they do them as part of their master plan to achieve domination of the world. We did nothing to force them to blockade Berlin. We did nothing to force them to take over Czechoslovakia. We did nothing to force them to send the North Koreans to invade South Korea. And we have done nothing to force them to block almost every single effort in the United Nations to bring peace to the world — including the American-supported UN plan to place atomic energy under effective international control.

Even if we did not have a single atomic bomb, I am convinced that the Soviet leaders would be just as hard at work building atomic bombs of their own, and — if they knew we had none — there would be a much better chance than now exists that they would use such weapons against us. Our ever-growing stockpile of atomic weapons, far from being a stimulant to war, is actually the most important single safeguard against World War III.

Our bombs are for defense — of ourselves and our allies. They are not for the purpose of making aggressive war against anyone. We used the atomic bomb against the Japanese not to destroy lives, but to save lives — the lives of the hundreds of thousands of Americans and Japanese that inevitably would have been lost if World War II had continued.

I believe our national atomic energy policy is the only policy that this nation — upon whose position in the world the lives of millions upon millions of people depend — could follow and still be consistent with the Christian ideals and principles we try to live by. The American government could, of course, go to the men in the Kremlin and say:

"You have threatened us, so here are our atomic weapons; we are renouncing them and we are asking no guarantees in return. You are now free to deprive 150,000,000 Americans of the freedoms for which their forefathers fought so dearly. You are free to destroy their places of worship; to hurl them into slave labor camps and prisons, and to kill as many of them as you wish. Moreover, you are now free to take away the liberty of all the peoples of the world, not only in this generation, but forever."

To me, such a thing would be unthinkable, and most un-Christian-like.

It is war that is bad — not just atomic war. And it is the way atomic bombs are used that is bad —not the bombs themselves. Our bombs are to protect liberty and to prevent war until that day, which I sincerely hope will arrive, when the Soviet leaders provide some real evidence that they honestly want peace. And if war does come through Communist aggression they are the best means we have of saving the lives and liberties of those who would otherwise become Communism's innocent victims.

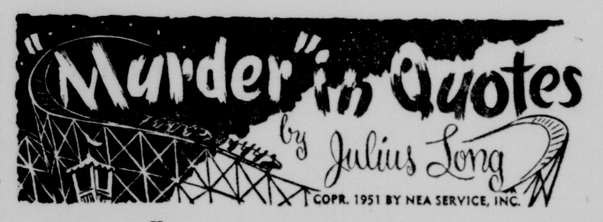
We test atomic weapons because we must test them in our development program. We do not test them to scare anyone. They are actually evidences of the progress we are making, not only in weapons, but also in the manufacture of materials for peaceful use. We must remember that these materials we are now putting into weapons can, if never used as weapons, be easily converted for use in the production of power and the manufacture of radioactive substances for the benefit of man's health and welfare.

Atomic energy holds tremendous promise for a better life for all of us in the future, and we are advancing steadily toward greater realization of this promise. It is peculiarly fortunate, in my view, that atomic energy is also simultaneously providing the means by which we can preserve our lives, our freedom and our way of life until this promise is fulfilled.

My father, incidentally, was not only a great "sermonizer;" he was also a veteran of the Spanish-American war and World War I, and is buried in Arlington cemetery. He knew that aggressors are not deterred by weakness, and — as he did — I sincerely hope that, through strength, we may have fewer new graves there in the future.

• Side Glances

"They haven't seen each other for 40 years—just tell Pop you'd know they're cousins because of the strong resemblance!"



X

THE deputy opened the door.

I held my head down with Hal Hover's hat pulled low over my forehead. The deputy, used to locking up the alimony delinquent and letting him go, even turned his back on me. I took his service .38 and gave him a shove into the office.

Sheriff Souders, sitting there, started to get up when he recognized me, but I stopped him with a show of the gun. I felt a cold chill when I turned to confront the other person in the room.

"Julie Bradford—what are you doing here?"

"I remembered seeing you in the Show Boat. I thought I might be able to give you an alibi."

The sheriff scoffed. "Plenty of people saw him there. Put down that gun, Jimmer! You're only proving your own guilt!"

I wondered if I would have squeezed the trigger if he had tried to stop me. I knew that he thought I would. Everybody, including the sheriff, thought me a killer. If he made a move toward me and I shot him, then I'd be one.

"Inside the tank, Sheriff. And take your deputy with you!"

Souders and the deputy wasted no time. I slammed the bullpen door after them and turned the key. Julie Bradford said:

"Put down that gun, Jimmer."

I laid the revolver on the sheriff's desk.

"If you're on the level, Julie, I don't understand you. You're the one that got me into this jam originally."

"That's why I'm willing to help you now. My car's outside."

I looked her over. I had always pegged her as a cold and uninteresting blonde with enough Eastern college education to make her patronize a business man like myself. But now I knew I had been wrong.

We left the jail, and I got under the wheel of her convertible.

"First I'm taking you home. Then I've got a little job to do."

"You're not taking me home. I'm in on this up to my ears, and I'm staying in! Besides, you get into trouble going alone."

She had something there.

"I'm going to the Berman place on Orchard Island, where Earnie lives. I'm going to beat the truth out of him."

"But he didn't kill his brother. Earnie was in Cleveland."

"He could have sent his goon, Babe Tussig down for the job. Maybe he just had Tussig primed to hijack the money he was set to pay off someone. Could be that Tussig over-extended himself. At any rate, Earnie knows all the answers, and he's going to tell me all of them!"

"Jimmer, I tell you that doesn't make any difference! You're freed for that. The thing to do is to get you out of this new mess."

"And you still want to ride along."

"That's right. I'll do anything for you." She saw my quick look and hastily added: "Because I got you into it in the first place!"

• • •

WE reached Berman's in a matter of minutes. There was a light on in the living room. I had tried to talk Julie into going home, but now I said:

"If you're game, come along. I'll need you as a witness to what Earnie Berman has to say."

"Sure I'm game." I went around and held the convertible door for her. She slid her long, perfectly tapered legs out and in doing so brushed her handbag off onto the ground. I picked it up. It was too heavy, even for a woman's handbag. I opened it and took out the man-sized automatic pistol. I handed back the bag and checked the chamber of the pistol. There was a cartridge there, all right.

"And you made me leave the deputy's gun at the sheriff's office!"

Her voice was steady enough. "I always keep that pistol around. I know how to use it, too."

"I'll bet you do." I kept the pistol in my hand as I took her elbow and walked with her to Earnie Berman's cottage. As we approached the door, she stopped.

"There's a picture window on the lake front side. Maybe we'd better take a look before we go in."

"Maybe we'd better."

I let her lead the way because she knew it so well. We rounded the cottage and were between the boat landing at which Cleo Cansino had docked that night she had come to the island to be a witness for Earnie's brother. The picture window that Julie mentioned was large enough to see the entire cottage living room almost as if it were a stage.

• • •

THE spectacle we beheld was entirely too melodramatic. Earnie Berman stood looking down at the peroxide blonde who had got me to go to Cleo's cottage. Tussig stood behind the girl. Earnie would speak. The girl would say nothing. Then Tussig would reach down casually and give the girl a friendly little pat on the cheek. Then the blonde would scream so loud that I could hear her through the plate glass window.

"Wait here," I told Julie. I went around to the front opened the door and walked inside. Tussig was just giving Kay O'Neill the little pat on the cheek again as I entered. From that place I could see why Kay let out another scream. Tussig must have held a razor blade between his fingers. The girl's right cheek was in shreds.

"I tell you I don't know!" the girl screamed. She tried to touch her bleeding face, but Tussig slapped her wrist down. She was almost hysterical.

"Break it up," I said.

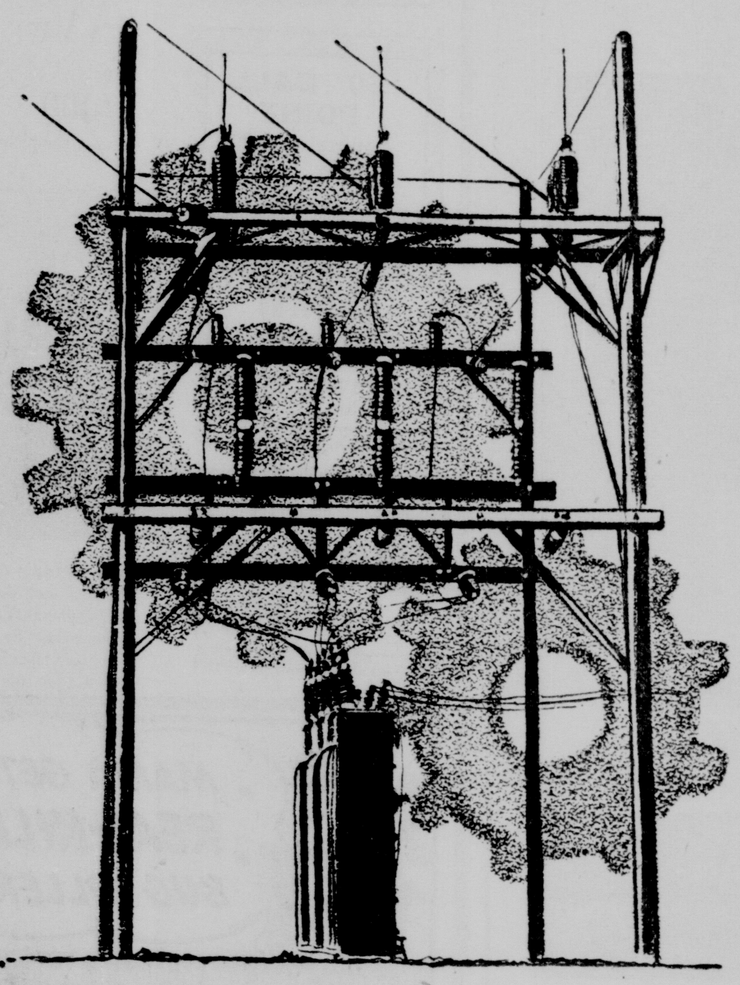
Power A-Plenty — for Western Missouri!



Electric power is being served at very reasonable rates to farm homes and rural communities in Western Missouri. Close cooperation between the Missouri Public Service Company and Rural Electric Cooperatives is making this possible.

Eight Rural Electric Cooperatives operate in the area, and are leading customers of the company. The cooperatives secure power in large volume at wholesale rates from the company, and in turn sell it to their patrons who use it in smaller quantities at retail rates.

Power generated by the company is delivered to the eight customer cooperatives at seventeen interconnecting stations throughout the area. The far-flung service made possible by the equipment of these two utility organizations interlocks at these points.

Through the combined efforts, power a-plenty is bringing low-cost benefits to farm homes in the area served by this company and the cooperatives. Nor is the benefit of this electric development program only to farm homes and individuals. It is worth many millions to Missouri business, the defense effort and the public welfare. The electric power program, in which good service and efficient performance are paramount, is indeed a boon to Western Missouri.

The Missouri Public Service Company is supplying electricity to these cooperatives:

Cooperative	Location	Manager	Number of Stations
Osage Valley Electric Coop	Butler	J. F. Louderback	5
Barton County Electric Coop	Lamar	C. W. Holcomb, Jr.	1

'M' is for Myrtle and Mayhem ---In Most Wives' Alphabet

Myrtle is a menace. Not just because Myrtle can do anything," but because Myrtle insists on making it all sound so simple and easy —especially in front of her friends' husbands.

Any husband, after an evening in Myrtle's home is bound to think his own wife is either lazy or stupid or has for years been selling him a bill of goods about how hard she works.

To begin with, Myrtle specializes in impromptu entertaining. In a few minutes after her "unexpected" guests arrive Myrtle whips up a tasty buffet before their eyes. Only another would be catty enough to wonder just how really spur-of-the-moment the party actually was, with a baked ham conveniently in the ice box, a cake baked just that day and other happy "coincidences."

But the men go home wondering why, if Myrtle can have unexpected guests so easily, their own wives get upset when they invite the crowd over without checking to see if the icebox resembles Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard.

Why Wives Grit Their Teeth

Then, too, if a wire makes an innocent remark like: "I'm going to get Mrs. So-and-So to slip-cover my davenport," Myrtle looks shocked. "Why don't you do it yourself?" she asks. "There's no trick to it at all. Why I wouldn't think of hiring a slip cover made."

Myrtle wouldn't dream of hiring the kitchen painted, either. And she isn't content to say so, either. You've got to see the kitchen she painted herself and hear how easy it was to do.

Myrtle can always tell other women exactly how to do anything they were figuring on getting someone else to do. And if she keeps it up and many more husbands innocently remark to their wives: "How about it Honey, don't you think you could paint the house?" or whatever, Myrtle is going to find herself boycotted by her women friends.

The Myrtles of the world are a menace to organized housewives.

See a Doctor if Pulse Gets Too High; It Could Be Start of Real Trouble

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The first letter today raises a rather serious problem.

Q—I have a son who is 21 years old and has a fast pulse varying from 90 to 120. Could this be serious?

A—If the pulse rate is as fast as indicated even when the young man is at rest the chances are something is wrong, probably with the heart though there are other possibilities. Certainly an effort should be made to find out what it is.

* * *

Q—I am greatly tormented by a a too-often recurrence of belching which embarrasses me no end, especially when I happen to be in company. What is the cause of this affliction and what can I do about it? T. B.

A—A physician I knew once had all the patients leave his waiting room because one of them belched so terrifically. He became interested in the subject and concluded that belching was almost invariably the result of swallowing air quite unconsciously as a rule.

In fact he could himself give a convincing demonstration. This air swallowing and belching becomes a sort of habit, especially after meals.

Like any other habit it may be difficult to stop, but since it is impossible to swallow air with the mouth open, some success has been reported by keeping a cork between the teeth and lips for half an hour or so after meals until the habit has been broken.

* * *

Q—Last year my children both had pink eye. What causes this and does it harm the eyes? Mrs. H. R.

A—Pink eye is the common name for a highly contagious variety of conjunctivitis. It is caused by a germ or bacterium. The eyes are not permanently harmed. The chief problem with this disease is to prevent its spread from one youngster to another.

* * *

Q—I'm constantly exposed to grinding dust in my work and have been for years. What are some of the symptoms of silicosis? L. J. E.

A—A chronic cough would certainly be one. However, symptoms in silicosis may be absent for a long time and if this condition is suspected the lungs should be examined by X-rays at periodic intervals.

* * *

Q—What would cause large blue viens to appear on the back of the hands? They came suddenly. Is it hardening of the arteries? Beth and Marion.

A—Some people have more prominent veins than others for a variety of reasons: amount of fatty tissue between viens and skin, texture of the skin, age, and probably others. It is not likely to be caused by arteriosclerosis but why it should develop rather suddenly if the health is otherwise good I am unable to explain.

* * *

Q—What in the diet should one avoid to prevent blood clots, and what juices should be included to prevent them? Reader.

A—Nothing omitted, nor added to the diet is likely to influence the development of blood clots.

* * *

Q—What is the value of the Mantoux test in older persons? What does it prove if it is positive M. D. M.

A—The Mantoux test is one of several skin tests used as an aid in the diagnosis of tuberculosis. If positive it indicates that a person has been exposed to the germ of tuberculosis, but since a large proportion of adults have been exposed even if they have never had an active form of the disease the test is of less value in them than in children.

Two Injured In Collision

Two persons were injured in a collision of a Street and Alley Department truck driven by Dick Keenan, 1413 East Fourth, foreman of the City Department, and a 1950 Ford sedan driven by Handy Handley, Versailles, Mo., about 3:30 p.m. Wednesday. The accident occurred at Broadway and Center.

Handley suffered a severe laceration on his forehead, and bruises. He was taken to the Bothwell hospital in the Ewing ambulance where he was treated by Dr. A. J. Campbell. Keenan was knocked unconscious for several minutes but did not go to the hospital. He also had a bruised right shoulder and complained of a neck injury.

According to witnesses the car was headed west on Broadway and Keenan was going east and turned north onto Center when the accident occurred. The car was badly smashed in the front, while the right side of the truck was damaged from the headlight back to the door.

Editor Predicts Truman Victory

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 — (AP) — A prediction that President Truman will run for office again next year, and that he will be re-elected by an even bigger majority than in 1948, came today from one of his close friends, a well-known newspaper editor.

It was contained in an article in the American magazine, written by Jonathan Daniels.

Daniels is editor of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer. He is a member of the Democratic National committee, and the author of a biography of Mr. Truman.

In the article, Daniels asserted that the President believes his policies are right. To put them into effect, therefore, Mr. Truman necessarily must be the Democratic candidate in 1952.

Jaycee Golf Tourney at Warrensburg

Between 70 and 80 entries are expected for the Warrensburg Jaycee Open Golf tournament, which will be played Sunday and Labor Day on the Warrensburg course. The tournament is being sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Harry Turney, the manager of the tournament was notified that at least 10 golfers from Butler will compete, including B. M. McQuinn, holder of the 18-hole record for the Warrensburg course—65—and Buck Payne, whose 29 set a new nine-hold record for the course.

There will be seven flights in the tournament, with trophies to be awarded to the winner and runner-up in each flight. There will also be a trophy for the low medal score in the qualifying round on Sunday.

The tournament will be a medal score affair. Eighteen holes will be played Sunday to determine in which flights the golfers will be placed. Men of similar ability will compete against each other in the final 18 holes on Monday. The total medal score for the 36 holes played during the two days will decide the winner in each flight.

Qualifying rounds on Sunday may be played at any time during the day. Play on Monday, however, will be on a time schedule. If the number of entrants is around 70, play will begin at 8:00 a.m. If there are more, the start probably will be earlier.

Richard Raker, winner of Flight A in the recent Warrensburg Golf club tournament, was the first to enter the Jaycees Open. Wilbur Scott, postmaster at Deepwater, who was the 1950 Missouri sand greens champion, has entered, as has Dan Hord of Columbia, runner-up in Class A of the 1951 state sand greens tournament at Carrollton.

Other clubs that have been contacted about sending players are Marshall, Elm Hills of Sedalia, Sedalia Country club, Higginsville, Odessa, Lee's Summit, Harrisonville, Clinton, Camdenton, Rolla, Nevada and Pleasant Hill.

The public is welcome to follow the golfers during the tournament, and there is no admission charge for spectators. Wives of Junior Chamber of Commerce members will be in charge of the concession stand, where sandwiches, soda pop and similar items will be sold.

Women Intensify Efforts to Get Guardsmen Back

said: 'I can assure you we are working on a plan to release you guardsmen just like we did the ERC (enlisted reserve corps) men'."

Mrs. Davis said they were trying to obtain the original letter attributed to Short.

The Springfield Leader and Press published several letters from members of the company.

One, dated August 9, said: "A big group of enlisted reserves left our company yesterday for home and discharge. They came in lots later than we did and here they are already getting out. I can't seem to understand it."

At Springfield, Mo., the women whose husband are serving with other National Guard units, decided to renew their demonstrations in front of the National Guard armory there today.

The Springfield women started the whole business in the state by staging a demonstration Monday with a picket line. They called off their pickets Tuesday and Wednesday after talking with National Guard officials.

However, last night they decided to renew their protests. They want draft calls increased so the army can release their veteran husbands who are members of the 106 Ordnance company.

Awards Are Given In Agronomy

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 30—(AP)—Dr. E. R. Sears, Columbia, Mo., and Dr. C. L. W. Swanson, New Haven, Conn., last night received the Stevenson award, the highest American honor in agronomy.

The awards were presented at a dinner of the American society of agronomy. Nearly 1,500 scientists are attending a week-long convention of the society here.

Sears, senior geneticist of the Missouri agricultural experimentation station, received his award for reports on economic wheat breeding.

E. Marion Brown of Columbia, Mo., was among 10 members of the society who were declared fellows for their achievements in agrony.

Homicide Verdict In Shooting

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30—(AP)—A coroner's jury has returned a homicide verdict following an inquest in the fatal shooting of Joseph Bommarito, 43, Mt. Vernon, Ill., produce dealer.

Bommarito was shot through the heart on a street corner in commission row late Sunday night.

Twice during the hearing Mrs. Louise Bommarita, 30, tried to attack Vito Cusumano, 28, charged with first degree murder in the slaying.

Police prevented Mrs. Bommarito from reaching Cusumano.

Cusumano was a former employer of Bommarito and more recently a rival of the slain man. Both had produce routes in southern Illinois.

Name Failed to Appear

In the list of baby winners from the State Fair which appeared in the Democrat last week one name of the Blue Ribbon baby in the two year old to about 12 month class was ommitted.

The winner of this division was Dannie Ray Eckles, 17 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eckles, 1316 South Osage.

Senate Bill Not Stiff as House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—(AP)—The Senate finance committee disclosed today that top bracket taxpayers earning a million dollars a year would be $31,257 better off under its personal income tax increase plan than under the plan voted by the House.

Tables released by the committee showed that the benefit—as compared with the House scheme—would range down to as little as 60 cents for low income taxpayers.

The tables handed out by the Senate committee today were substitutes for the ill-fated ones released after it first acted on individual income taxes.

The original tables disclosed that the plan tentatively adopted by the committee would hit some married couples in the $5,000-to-$15,000 brackets harder than in the increase proposed by the House.

The Senators did not want to do this and had not realized they had done it. They finally came up with a new scheme which benefits every class of taxpayer as compared with the House bill. The benefit is proportionately greater in the high brackets, however.

Under the new tables, a single person with no dependents and $800 net income would pay $45 a year compared with $44.40 under the Senate committee plan.

A married couple with two dependents and $1,000,000 income would pay $900,000 under the House bill, $868,743 under the Senate plan.

Price Changes On Specials

By the Associated Press

Food shoppers preparing for the summer's last big outing holiday will find price changes confined mostly to Labor day specials.

Top grade eggs advanced one to three cents a dozen in many markets as is usual in late August. But otherwise dairy, meat and poultry items held generally steady. Pork prices, after climbing irregularly for three weeks, stabilized at the recently-authorized higher ceilings.

Lower were western melons, prunes and plums, all citrus fruits, seedless grapes, apples, peppers, Spanish onions and snap beans.

Agriculture department market reporters said tomatoes and peaches were cheap and plentiful and advised home canners to take advantage of the seasonal abundance now before supplies begin to taper off. Peaches and processed citrus products were featured on the department's national list of most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week.

Here's the Agriculture department's national list of foods expected to be plentiful—and therefore relatively cheap — for the month of September:

Grapes, canned apples and applesauce, processed citrus juices, beets, cabbage, broiling and frying chickens, hens, fresh and frozen fish, nonfat dry milk solids, cottage cheese and peanut butter.

Wholesale food prices declined this week for the third week in a raw, the Dun & Bradstreet food index showed. The index at $6.89 was four cents below last week, and within one cent of the year's low to date—$6.88 on July 17. A year ago it was $6.69. The index represents the total cost at wholesole of one pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Favors Pacific Frontier Line

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey told the free nations today to draw a Pacific frontier line and to promise any transgressor "the same kind of bloody nose you got in Korea."

"That isn't cheap and it isn't pleasant and it calls for sacrifice, but I want the free world to stay alive," said the 1948 Republican presidential nominee.

Dewey, who returned last night from a Far Eastern tour that took him to the Korean front, spoke before the 52nd annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

It was his first address since his return.

Dewey declared the United States should stop conducting foreign policy "in bits and pieces."

He called for a "total outlook" to thwart Communist aggression, which he said already had precipitated the Korean war and four separate revolutions in the Far East.

Dewey told of the respect he gained for the United Nations allies during his 40,000-mile tour.

About 3,000 persons crowded into the Hotel Astor's main ballroom applauded when Dewey deciared:

"You can't re-arm cheap but I'd a whale of a lot rather make arms than dead Americans."

Dewey's speech reiterated views he expressed in a press conference last night on his arrival at Idlewild airport. Dewey told the newsmen:

"We invited the attack on Korea by announcing that it was not in our defense perimeter, and withdrawing our troops. We lost China to the free world."

Abilities as Much as Beauty

ASBURY PARK, N. J.—(AP)—Sewing, bedmaking and similar domestic accomplishments will count just as much as beauty when it comes to selecting "Mrs. America" of 1952.

Mayor George A. Smock II, honorary chairman of the Mrs. America committee, has announced special domestic ability contests to be held at the 13th annual grand finals in Asbury Park's Convention hall Sunday, September 9.

One of these will be a sewing derby with over 30 wedded beauties—finalists from every part of the country — competing to see which one can sew all the buttons on her husband's shirt in the fastest time.

The finalists also will be required to open up hide-a-beds and make them up with the greatest possible speed and efficiency.

However, as in any beauty contest, highlight of the affair will still be the bathing suit parade. Following this event—after the judges have had an opportunity to balance beauty against ability—"Mrs. America" will be chosen.

munists plenty of time to manufacture new evidence.

No Bombing Indication

The U.N. command said original evidence did not indicate that Kaesong was bombed.

The Communist broadcast went into a lengthy denial of Ridgway's statement that the Communists refused to permit a daylight investigation of their evidence.

It documented this with a long statement attributed to Col. Chang Chun-Shan, Communist liaison officer who went to the scene with the U.N. command representatives, Col. A. J. Kinney and Co. J. C. Murray.

One Red broadcast quoted Chang as saying:

"In spite of our repeated expression and desire to carry on the investigation that day, the U.N. liaison officer said I refused the daylight investigation. However, that is a shameless lie.

"I not only did not refuse the reinvestigation but also said that if the reinvestigation is necessary I welcomed his coming for the investigation and told him clearly he is welcome at any time.

"On the morning of August 23 while spot invesigating, U. N. liaison officer Kinney showed a definite reluctance from the beginning toward investigating the affair. (It was shortly after midnight; and it was raining.)

"Even after our strong demand Colonel Kinney did not want to investigate the bomb crater and bits of bombs. Instead he urged Colonel Murray to discontinue the investigation. The investigation was stopped there."

The U.N. command has said the "bomb craters' were not bomb craters and the "bits of bombs" were not bits of bombs.

One Peiping broadcast gave a play by play account of the conversation between Kinney and Chang. Chang insisted it be investigated then.

The exchange, as reported by Chang over the radio, ended with this quote from Chang:

"As far as we are concerned we consider the investigations (are over). But you are welcome to make another investigation if you think it is necessary, provided you contact us by telephone before then."

The Peiping broadcasts were interpreted here as a Red quest for more time.

Ridgway flatly told the Red commanders—North Korean Premier Kim Il sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai—that he would make no further investigation because it would serve no useful purpose. He said he had definitely established no U. N. plane could have bombed Kaesong. No one now expects Ridgway to agree to a reinvestigation.

A Thursday release from Ridgway's public information office looked upon a message Tuesday from Kim and Peng as not so firm.

The release said the tone of this message was "more subdued and the language is milder" than previous notes.

It suggested the note "may contain some hope for the resumption of the talks." But it added, this would "bring no guarantee" that if negotiations were resumed they would not be "broken off again whenever it suits their purpose."

John J. Pershng Ignores Army for Navy

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30—(AP)—John J. Pershing has ignored the army to join the navy.

The 19-year-old namesake and fifth cousin of the late General of the Armies enlisted in the navy yesterday because, he said, "I want to learn a trade and I figured the navy will be the best place for me to do so."

Young Pershing, who lives in nearby Glendale, is a graduate of Loyola high school here.

Draft Awaits 300,000 Men Now Deferred

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 — (AP) — Well over 300,000 men will lose their deferments when new draft regulations, now awaiting President Truman's signature, are put into effect.

The regulations will carry out provisions of the new Universal Military Training and Service (UMTS) act.

Selective Service said between 150,000 and 200,000 childless married men will lose their deferments under the new rules. An estimated 150,000 4-F's are expected to be drafted when the armed forces' mental standards are lowered.

Exam Score Lowered

The Army said that since July 18, in accordance with the act, it has been accepting draftees who made only a score of 10 on the pre-induction mental exam, instead of the 13 required previously.

The more than 250,000 who have flunked the pre-induction exam, or Armed Forces Qualification Test (AFQT), will be re-examined starting in January at the latest, the Army said.

Selective service reported that 500,000 childless husbands were in the deferred category on July 31, but that about one third probably will fail their pre-induction mental or physical examinations.

Others will retain deferments because they are in essential jobs or their wives have become pregnant. Draft regulations allow unborn children to be considered dependents.

Displaced Persons Considered

UMTS also calls for the reclassification of thousands of displaced persons who are permanent residents of this country but not yet U. S. citizens.

About 9,000 conscientious objectors, heretofore, deferred outright, will be required to do essential work under the new regulations. Some may be allowed to work for American religious groups abroad.

John Driskell Shoots Himself

John Shirley Driskell, 61, shot and killed himself in the front yard of his home on route 5, just east of the Missouri Pacific shops, about 10:10 p. m. Wednesday.

Mr. Driskell, according to members of the family, had been in declining health for years, and this was given as the reason for his act. Mr. Driskell shot himself with a shotgun, forcing the trigger with a yard stick. The shot struck him in the center of the chest.

Dr. Gordon Stauffacher, coroner, and Sheriff John F. Taylor were summoned to the home and made an investigation. Dr. Stauffacher stated an inquest was not necessary

Mr. Driskell was born at Kinston, Iowa, March 29, 1890, the son of the late J. O. and Barbara Driskell. He has resided in Sedalia for many years. Mr. Driskell was one of 12 children, five brothers preceeding him in death, Angelo, Frank, William, Elgin and Charles.

Surviving him is his widow, a son John David Driskell, Gardenia, Calif., by a former marriage; five step-children, Leroy Estes and Kenneth Estes, of Kansas City, J. W. Estes Brawley, Calif., Mrs. Annabell Carson, Hughesville and Mrs. Bert Arnold of Sedalia. Three grandchildren also survive.

Three sisters Mrs. J. A. Kerr, 1504 South Prospect, Mrs. John Witte, Baring, Mo., and Mrs. George Reed, Green Ridge, three brothers J. O. Driskell, Norfolk Neb., Chester Driskell, Sidney, Iowa, and Harry Driskell, New London, Iowa.

Mr. Driskell was employed at the Missouri Pacific shops for many years, and retired several years ago because of his health.

The body was taken to the Ewing Funeral Home.

City Marshal Jailed By Springfield Police

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 30 — (AP)—Charles Jones, city marshall of Republic, Mo., was taken into custody Wednesday afternoon after he allegedly threatened peace officers sent to arrest him.

For several hours six sheriff's deputies and two Missouri state highway patrolmen watched the home, waiting for a chance to arrest the marshall, who is charged with disturbing the peace, and felonious assault in a complaint filed by the Green county attorney.

They said he was in the living room of the house with a cocked pistol, threatening to shoot anyone who entered.

Shortly before 3 p.m. Sheriff Glenn Hendrix, who knew Jones, entered the home and persuaded the officer to go with him. He was brought to the county jail here.

In the golden age of whaling, between 1833 and 1863, Amerima had as many as 675 ships on the seas seeking the great mamal.

A MESSAGE TO THE MAN OR WOMAN WHO FEELS "BELOW BEST"

We want to talk seriously—not to people actually sick—but to people who go along day by day feeling usually a little below par ... often fatigued ... snappish and irritable. People who all too often suffer with nervous tension. In short, people who do not know what it is to enjoy that 100% feeling.

While these conditions may be due to other causes, very often diet is the only thing that's at fault. In an alarming number of cases, the food we eat does not give us enough of the important Vitamin B Complex—the vitamins which have a profound influence on our vigor, vitality, and state of nerves. This is not a claim—it is a fact attested to by some of the most eminent scientific sources.

Now—the way to find out whether you suffer with a Vitamin B deficiency is actually to try a good, trustworthy Vitamin B Complex preparation like BEXEL Vitamin B Complex Capsules ...and to try it over a sufficiently long period of time. B Vitamins may make a world of difference in your well-being and stamina—but they do not work from today to tomorrow.

Make This 30-Day Test

Therefore, McKesson & Robbins, the makers of BEXEL, come forward with this suggestion: Make the next 30 days your BEXEL Vitamin month. Take BEXEL every day without fail. Then, if at the end of the month you don't feel definitely better, your druggist is authorized to refund your money in full.

This is not just a money-back offer. It is a sincere effort to help you find out for yourself whether BEXEL can help you, as it has helped so many thousands.

BEXEL Vitamin B Complex Capsules give you the five important B Vitamins, including full protective amounts of B_1 and B_2. BEXEL Capsules are easy to take, inexpensive—and completely trustworthy because they are made by McKesson & Robbins, Inc., Bridgeport, Conn., one of America's great pharmaceutical laboratories. Start your BEXEL Vitamin Month today!

Gavilan in a Close Decision Over Graham

Hot Arguments Ensue After the 15 Rounds Ended

By Ted Smits

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—Kid Gavilan won a hairline decision over Billy Graham to keep the world welterweight championship, but the fight served only to start a furious argument.

It was their third meeting and the third split decision. Graham now has won once and the Cuban twice.

The 15-round fight last night in Madison Square Garden resolved itself into a matter of personal opinion. Gavilan was more generally the aggressor, started fast, and threw long, looping punches. Graham was the superb counter-puncher, started slowly, and closed with a mighty rush. Despite the numerous blows there were no knockdowns and no serious damage.

Judge Arthur Schwartz liked Gavilan clearly, nine rounds to six.

Judge Frank Forbes called it 7-7 with one even, and gave Graham the edge in points, 11-10. That cast his vote for Graham.

Referee Mark Conn also called it 7-7 with one even, but he gave Gavilan the edge in points 10-7, and that decided it.

Of 13 ringside newspapermen polled, 10 favored Graham and three Gavilan.

The Associated Press card gave it to Graham, 7-5, with three even.

The pro-Graham crowd roared a mighty protest, cheered the New Yorker to the echo, and Al Weill, international boxing club matchmaker, dashed into Graham's dressing room and told the disconsolate challenger, "don't worry, don't worry, you'll get another chance."

"I know I'll get another shot, but I want the title now," said Graham softly. "Geez, I think here's one time when I really had it. They can't take it away from me. Geez, I shudda won. I wasn't even tired."

Gavilan talked Spanish a mile a minute but allowed he thought he won it nine rounds to four with the rest even.

This was the Cuban's first defense of the championship he won May 18 of this year from Johnny Bratton and he went into the ring a 12-5 favorite. At 145 1/4 he had a one quarter pound margin over Graham. The closeness of the decision, the spirited nature of the fight, and the violent reaction of the crowd all pointed toward a fourth meeting of the rivals.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 30—(AP)—Red Blaik ended a lengthy discussion of army's football prospects with "don't make it sound as if I was crying." . . . For once, the reporters who often have accused the army coach of undue tearfulness wouldn't have blamed him for shedding a few tears . . . After all, he had lost an entire football squad in a particularly painful way and he had just finished telling how little manpower was left . . . Red seemed to find some consolation in the idea that a few of his yearling backs ought to be fine players two years hence . . . But his less philosophical assistants apparently didn't agree . . . "Last year's Plebe team was the weakest since I've been here," said one aide, "and the new Plebe class is away below that. We just didn't get them . . . Besides, there's too much doubt whether the incoming Plebes can carry the academic load and play football too. We have about six of them working now, but I don't know whether we'll use any of them."

Dark Days for the Black Knights

Blaik cleared up the Plebe question by explaining that most of them won't be on the team after Sept. 30 unless they "demonstrate beyond question" they can keep up with the books, too . . . And most of them are only "B" squad prospects, anyway . . . The yearlings, or sophomores, will have to carry the big load this year and the best of them are backs . . . In the line Blaik has two experienced ends, survivors of the wholesale dismissals, plus a flock of big boys promoted from the "B" squad and a few converted backs . . . He has a little trouble distinguishing between the ones who developed into good prospects on the junior varsity squad and those who hung around there a year or two without progress . . . "My honest opinion is that there is no one lineman who stands out," he mused . . . A quick look on the sun-baked practice field on the plains confirmed his analysis . . . There's plenty of size on the army squad, but the backs were running into one another at times and the linemen didn't block with authority or show the speed you expect to see in a West Point team.

Jim Ball Goes To Springfield As Cage Coach

Jim Ball, basketball coach at Smith-Cotton high school the past four years, was hired Wednesday night by the Springfield Board of Education as head basketball coach of the Senior High School Bulldogs. He replaced John A. Grayson, who resigned to become basketball coach at Nebraska Wesleyan in Lincoln.

Ball, a graduate of Southwest Missouri State College in Springfield, has coached at S-C since 1947 and was at Versailles for two seasons. At the latter school Ball developed August (Bud) Heineman, a high school standout who later performed for the University of Missouri.

At Smith-Cotton Ball trained such performers as the late Bob Tipton, Bill Holst, Bob Shawver and others.

During his four years at the local school he piloted one team to the state tournament, and missed two others by a narrow margin. This past season his club was defeated in the regional finals by Lees Summit.

Ball's style of offensive and defensive basketball has been a favorite in Springfield since 1946 when his team took second place in the state finals. He took his squad there again last year for the Greenwood tourney and the Sedalians were a favorite of the Greene county fans.

A Smith-Cotton official declined to comment on who the new coach at S-C would be, but said several names were under consideration.

Boston Sells Sain To Yanks For Huge Sum

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30—(AP)—The N. Y. Yanks Wednesday purchased Johnny Sain from the Boston Braves for an estimated $50,000 and a player after the 32-year-old righthander had been passed up by every National League club for the $10,000 waiver price.

To make room for Sain, the Yankees handed veteran pitcher Jack Kramer his unconditional release. Sain probably will be used mainly in relief by the Yankees.

Sain's place on the Braves' staff will be taken by Lew Burdette, property of the Kansas City club of the American Association. The young righthander has been on option from Kansas City to San Francisco of the Pacific Coast league. With the Seals he had a 14-2 record.

The sale of Sain is similar to a deal made by the Yankees back in 1945 when they sold pitcher Hank Borowy to the Chicago Cubs for an estimated $100,000 after all American League clubs had passed him up on waivers. The transaction caused much eyebrow-raising. Borowy went on to help the Cubs win the National League pennant that year.

Join Yanks In Washington

Sain joins the Yankees in Washington today and thereby rejoins Mgr. Casey Stengel. The veteran Arkansas curve-baller, one-time ace of the Braves' staff is suffering his poorest season in the big leagues. He has won only five while losing 13.

Levi's Can Tie Marshall K. of C.

The Levi's will journey to Alma Friday night for their last game in the Central Missouri Softball league. A victory over Alma will put the Sedalians in a first-place tie with the Knights of Columbus team of Marshall.

The K. of C. completed their league play and have a record of 15 victories against three defeats while the Levi's have 14 wins and three losses in league play.

Last Tuesday night the Sedalians nosed out the Marshall team at Center Park by a score of 8 to 7. Swisher hit the deciding homer with two mates on base in the 9th to win the game.

Players making the trip to Alma are to meet at 420 Wilkerson at 6:30 p. m.

Burton's Blues to Clinton Tourney

The Burton's Blues defeated Boonville Wednesday night at Boonville by a one-sided score of 9 to 3.

Darlene Swearengin homered in the fifth, while other team mates were busy collecting doubles and triples off of Long, a southpaw pitcher. Catching for Boonville was Pruitt.

Earlene Walz was on the mound for the Blues with Dorothy Stockstill receiving.

The Blues are entered in the Clinton City tournament to be held this week-end. It will be a double elimination tournament.

Yanks End a Western Tour With A 7-4 Record

By Ralph Roden
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees won the 1949-50 pennants with late season acquisitions from the National league. Today the Bombers are banking on another Johnny-come-lately from the senior circuit to insure success in their current drive for the American league flag.

Allie Reynolds stopped the Browns on two hits as the Yanks closed out their final tour of the west with a 7-4 record. The Yanks, idle the next two days, clubbed Brownie ace Ned Garver and two relief pitchers for 17 hits. Reynolds aided his own cause, driving in three runs. Ken Wood drove in both St. Louis' runs with a homer in the fourth. Garver, seeking his 16th victory, was bombed out in the first when the Yanks scored five runs.

Gus Zernial and Alex Kellner teamed up to beat the Indians. Zernial sent two runs home with his 29th homer and doubled and scored the third Philadelphia run. Kellner blanked the Indians on five safeties in out-pitching Mike Garcia.

In other American league games the Boston Red Sox turned back the Detroit Tigers, 7-5, and the Washington Senators nosed out the Chicago White Sox, 2-1 in 13 innings.

In the National league, the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers humbled the Cincinnati Reds, 13-1; the runner-up New York Giants downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-1; the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Philadelphia Phils, 3-2, and the Boston Braves defeated the Chicago Cubs, 4-1.

Gil Hodges drove home seven runs on a pair of homers and a double to lead the Dodgers to victory against the Reds. The homers boosted Hodges' output to 36, most ever hit by a Brooklyn player in one season. Babe Herman held the former high, 35. Don Newcombe breezed to his 17th victory.

The Cards scored a run in the ninth without a hit to edge the Phils. Bill Johnson walked, stole second, advanced to third on catcher Del Wilber's wild throw and scored on a fly ball. Gerry Staley was the winner and Ken Heintzelman the loser.

Milgrams Take Second From Brookfield

BROOKFIELD, Mo., Aug. 30—(AP)—The Kansas City Milgrams can clinch the Missouri Ban Johnson baseball championship tonight with another victory over Brookfield.

Kansas City defeated Brookfield 11-4 last night for their second straight victory in the best 3-of-5 series.

The third game will be at Kansas City tonight.

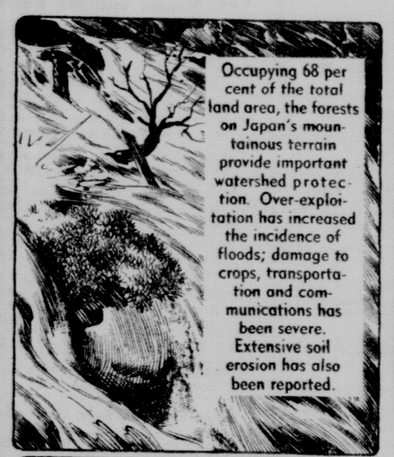
JAPAN: Rebirth of a Nation

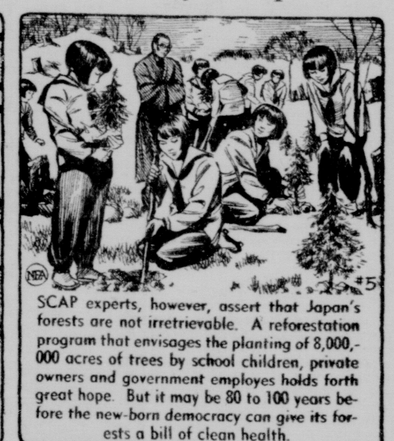
Illustrated by Ralph Lane

Biggest headache for SCAP planners has been the plight of Japan's forests which provide fuel for millions. To supply the needs of their war machine, the Japanese cut forests at four times their rate of growth. And at present rates, made necessary by reconstruction plans, Japan's important stands of timber may be exhausted in 15 years.



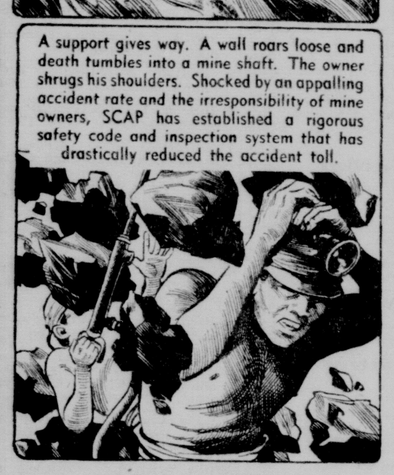
Occupying 68 per cent of the total land area, the forests on Japan's mountainous terrain provide important watershed protection. Over-exploitation has increased the incidence of floods; damage to crops, transportation and communications has been severe. Extensive soil erosion has also been reported.

Still another gloomy aspect of the forest problem: SCAP experts estimate that the timber destroyed by pine bark beetles each year is more than enough to supply Japan's annual need for railroad ties. Full-scale war on the pine bark beetle has been waged by SCAP with information and education programs.



SCAP experts, however, assert that Japan's forests are not irretrievable. A reforestation program that envisages the planting of 8,000,000 acres of trees by school children, private owners and government employes holds forth great hope. But it may be 80 to 100 years before the new-born democracy can give its forests a bill of clean health.

U. S. aid is also being pumped into the narrow but all-important veins of Japan's ore fields. Heavy emphasis has been placed on making Japan self-sufficient in coking coal, needed for making of iron and steel. Thanks to improved blasting and drilling methods, future Japan may also be self-sufficient in sulfur, pyrites and zinc.



A support gives way. A wall roars loose and death tumbles into a mine shaft. The owner shrugs his shoulders. Shocked by an appalling accident rate and the irresponsibility of mine owners, SCAP has established a rigorous safety code and inspection system that has drastically reduced the accident toll.

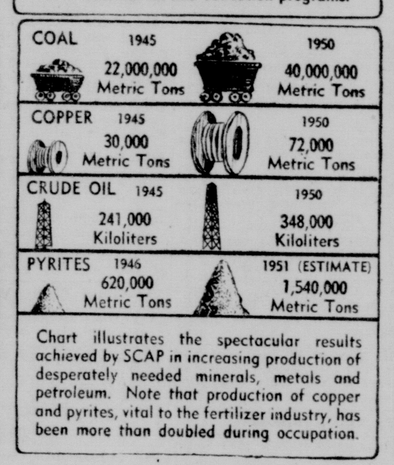


Chart illustrates the spectacular results achieved by SCAP in increasing production of desperately needed minerals, metals and petroleum. Note that production of copper and pyrites, vital to the fertilizer industry, has been more than doubled during occupation.

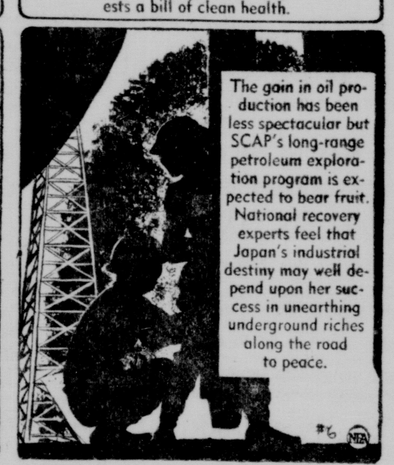

The gain in oil production has been less spectacular but SCAP's long-range petroleum exploration program is expected to bear fruit. National recovery experts feel that Japan's industrial destiny may well depend upon her success in unearthing underground riches along the road to peace.

New Baseball War Indicated

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30—(AP)—Rumblings of a new baseball war were heard over the Pacific coast today.

Directors of the big, triple-A Pacific coast league voted unanimously last night to quit organized baseball unless their demands for abolition of the draft and recognition of major league equality were accepted.

The drastic steps culminated a five year struggle to free the coast circuit from the draft law which permits major league clubs to pick up triple-A players for $10,000. The coast loop was the last of the minor leagues to accept the draft, agreeing to it in 1931.

One bitter compaint against the draft was the case of George Metkovich, an outfielder purchased by Oakland from the Boston Red Sox for $25,000. After a sparkling season, Metkovich was drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates for $10,000.

Representatives of seven clubs agreed on the history-making resolution which could result in a divorce from the national association of professional baseball leagues unless the terms are met.

The last league in this country to buck organized ball was the belated federal league. It opened in 1914 and folded after the 1915 season but managed to throw a scare into the national and American leagues.

Former Sedalian Acquires Fortune With Chinchillas

T. L. Fisher Formerly Had a Prosperous Jewelry Business; Back Here For a Reunion

Former Sedalian, Thomas L. Fisher, has made a fortune in the chinchilla business, expanding from a breeder of the animals to the buying and selling of them. Above is a picture of his exchange and show room in Santa Monica, Calif., from where chinchillas are shipped to many parts of the world.

From a pair of chinchillas has grown a tremendous business for a former Sedalian, Thomas L. Fisher.

Fisher was born and reared on a farm north of Sedalia, attended high school in La Monte, learned the watchmaking trade and came to Sedalia to work. He worked in two different jewelry stores here, then went to Columbia for a while and finally in 1936 went to California where he opened his own jewelry store.

He prospered in the jewelry business and has a large store in Santa Monica but the jewelry business was not quite enough. A new and fantastic business was growning in California — the breeding of chinchillas.

A friend, a farmer formerly from Carthage, Mo., had moved to California eight year ago. He began to breed chinchilla's six and one half years ago, each year making $200,000 from them.

Mr. Fisher decided that such a business wasn't bad, so he bought a pair of chinchillas and when the pair had babies he sold the lot and doubled his money. Then he bought another pair and did the same thing. Fnially he bought ten pairs. That was four years ago. Today he not only has a chinchilla ranch, over which he has a foreman, and where all the animals are raised but he has a show room in downtown Santa Monica where the chinchillas are taken to sell. He has gone even a bit farther than that, he both buys and sells the chinchillas and ships them over the United State and to many other places including Canada, Alaska, Hiwaii and Canal Zone.

The company is known as Fisher's Key Chinchilla Exchange and the name Key came from the slogan of the firm, "The Key to Financial Independence."

Approximately $3,000 is made on each breeding pair each year by selling the babies from each pair. There are babies three times a year.

Chinchilla breeders have orders for three million pelts but there are only 130,000 animals in existance and the principal task today is building breeding stock herds in sufficient numbers to later satisfy a world's market for stock and pelts. Since the animals are more valuable as breeding stock than as pelts, very few are pelted. The demand is so far ahead of the supply that it is doubtful if it can be met in the next 20 years.

Almost extinct in their own native land Andes, Chili South America, a mining engineer heard from the natives about the little animal and its soft fur. He had the Indians hunt out all that they could find and he started back to the United States with 13 animals. Two died on the way over and from the 11 came this great industry of today.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and their children, Margo, 13 and Donald, 7, left Tuesday for their home after a visit here with Mr. Fisher's relatives.

Reunion Held

A reunion was held Sunday at the old family home which is now the home of one of the sisters, Mrs. Roy L. Taylor in La Monte. All of the nine brothers and sisters and their families were present. The brothers and sisters are: Thomas L. Fisher, of Santa Monica, Mrs. Arthur Wilckens, Warrensburg, Mrs. Ben B. Faulconer, Knob Noster, Mrs. Paul Faulconer, La Monte, Forrest Fisher, La Monte, Mrs. Homer Beatty, Knob Noster, Roy N. Fisher, Essex, Ia., Mrs. Clay Whitworth, and Mrs. Roy L. Taylor, of La Monte. Also present were all of the children of the late Sam Fisher, another brother. This was the first time that all of the brothers and sisters had been together for many years. Seventy-five attended the reunion at which there were only the nine brothers and sisters and their families.

Those Flying Saucers May Have Been Freedom Balloons

FREE AIR: Freedom "pillows" are blown up before flight.

By NEA Service

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The balloons now drifting on "winds of freedom" across the Iron Curtain with truth messages from the Western world are a scientific dream that took two years to become reality.

The idea was first advanced in 1949 as a weapon in the cold war with the Kremlin. Although a similiar program had been studied for use against the Nazis near the end of World War II, nothing was done about it immediately.

A year ago leaders of the Crusade for Freedom took up the idea again as a possible way to aid the work being done by Radio Free Europe and Voice of America broadcasts to satellite countries.

* * *

A food company, strangely enough, helped the Crusade develop one of its message-carrying balloons. General Mills scientists, who have been working on cosmic ray and high altitude meteorology since the end of the war, produced a balloon made of the same type of plastic American housewives use for wrapping food.

The plastic is so thin that 300 of the balloons laid flat made a pile only one inch thick. But they inflate into a "pillow" four and a half feet square that carries a payload of 200 single-sheet messages.

When they're released, the "pillows" float along the wind at 20,000 feet, then return to earth in a "target area" pre-determined by the amount of gas used. Leakage of the gas through the pores of the fabric brings them down anywhere from 100 to 700 miles from the launching point.

* * *

During experiments in the U.S., some of these plastic "pillows" were mistakenly reported as flying saucers.

There is a ghostly effect when they come down, after which the balloon hops along the ground, catching on bushes and fences and making it easy for them to be found.

A second type of balloon which was floated on westerly winds into Czechoslovakia was developed by a Boston chemical firm, which conducted experiments with rubber weather balloons for the Crusade.

This balloon has a shorter range, climbing steadily from the launching point until is bursts, scattering its payload of 2000 single-sheet messages over many square miles.

AIRBORNE: During test flights, some freedom "pillows" were mistaken for flying saucers.

Maine Sardines Have Protein

BAKED MAINE SARDINES Italian is a low cost, "gourmet" main dish for dinner.

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Food and Markets Editor

For a low-cost source of protein Maine sardines are an outstanding value. The pack is tremendous.

A few special recipes will turn these low-cost sardines into family "gourmet" main dishes. These were prepared by noted Maine cooks exclusively for this column:

Baked Maine Sardines Italian (Serves 4 to 6)

Two cans Maine sardines, two tablespoons salad oil, 3 tablespoons chopped onion, one clove garlic minced, ¼ cup chopped green peppers, 2½ cups canned tomatoes, drained, ⅓ cup chopped ripe olives, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 cup prepared biscuit mix, ⅓ cup milk.

Saute onion and garlic in oil until golden brown. Add peppers, tomatoes, olives, salt and sugar and cook over low heat for 15 minutes. Add milk to prepared biscuit mix. Turn out on lightly floured surface and knead ten times. Place on greased baking sheet and pat out to large oval, ½ inch thick. Place sardines on top. Spoon tomato mixture over, bake 20 minutes in hot (400 degrees F.) oven.

Maine Sardine and Corn Fritters (Makes 12 fritters)

One can Maine sardines, coarsely broken up, 1 cup whole kernel corn, 3 eggs, separated, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 4 tablespoons butter or other shortening.

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add sardines, corn, salt, pepper and flour. Blend well. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop by tablespoonfuls into hot butter in frying pan. Cook until golden brown on both sides.

Maine Sardine and Potato Patties (Makes 4 patties)

One can Maine sardines, coarsely broken, 1 cup mashed potatoes, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 to 3 tablespoons butter.

Combine sardines, potatoes, onion, parsley and salt. Form into patties and dust lightly with flour. Fry in butter in frying pan until golden brown on each side.

MENU

BREAKFAST: Sliced peaches, ready-to-eat cereal, French toast, butter or fortified margarine, syrup or honey, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese and chopped raw vegetables, homogenized sour cream, buttered toasted English muffins, stewed blackberries, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Baked Maine sardines Italian, parsley potatoes, buttered garlic bread, mixed green "garden" salad, French dressing, fresh fruit compote, iced coffee, milk.

THE PATTER OF RAIN ON A PLASTIC ROOF—A pneumatic rain hat that protects the wearer and at the same time leaves the hands free for carrying packages is the ingenious invention of a California manufacturer. The hat, which is made of lightweight, flexible plastic, is carried in a small case that fits the purse. It is quickly and easily inflated, left, to the size of an umbrella and ties on with attached ribbons, as seen at right. The invention promises to eliminate the "umbrella-rib-in-the-eye" hazard of crowded city streets during a rain.

U. S. Professor Is Authority on Columbus

GENOA, Italy —(AP)— Professor Samuel Elliot Morrison of Harvard university visited the special exhibition here for the fourth centenary of the birth of Christopher Columbus.

Prof. Morrison was greeted here by a group of Italian and foreign scientists he guided in a 1939 Harvard expedition. The expedition followed the courses of the four Atlantic crossings of Columbus to identify the points he touched in his discoveries of the new world.

Prof. Morrison is widely known in Italy for his book "The Admiral of the Ocean" which is considered here the basic text for all studies on the great Genoese Admiral.

Rare Birds Sighted in Hawaii

NEW YORK —(AP)— Four flocks of wild nenes, a nearly extinct species of goose, were sighted this year in the mountains of Hawaii. The National Audubon society reports this as an encouraging sign in the campaign to preserve the bird.

Stricter Sterilization Urged For Hospitals

ATLANTA, Ga. —(AP)— Infections may be passed from one person to another in hospitals, clinics or health centers by hypodermic needles, syringes and thermometers not adequately sterilized or disinfected, Miss Lucille H. Sommermeyer warned the National League of Nursing Education.

Miss Sommermeyer is in charge of the nursing research laboratory of the Communicable Disease Center, Public Health Service, here. She said there is "serious doubt about the effectiveness of the commonly-used procedures for disinfecting clinical thermometers."

False Alarm Courtship

MADISON, Wis. —(AP)— Ring-necked pheasants have a false alarm courtship in the fall. The males crow and carry on courtships, though their breeding is done in the spring.

Tackling this puzzle, Fred Greeley, University of Wisconsin zoologist, finds it's due to increased activity of the pheasants' pituitary glands. In the spring, the pituitary spurs production of reproductive hormones when the days start to grow longer. Why the pituitary acts up again in the fall still isn't explained.

Walking Stick Plants Seeds

PORTLAND, Dre. —(AP)— C. S. Baker, retired moulder, has invented a walking stick that plants tree seeds—one seed with each step. No bending of your back. No change in pace, no change in the usual swing of a cane. It is declared good for six to eight acres of tree seed planting a day.

Use Frigerator Bag on Picnics

KEEP LABOR DAY picnic foods chilled in insulated "frigerator" bag

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Food and Markets Editor

We had tangy bottled soft drinks ice box cold on a picnic last week. those big insulated frigerator bags (about 22¼ by 14¼ inches) you can get in super markets. They are good for taking home frozen foods, too, and can be re-used many times. A slip-on metal handle makes it easy to seal and carry them.

For the Labor Day picnic, try these seaside buns. Also the mountain picnic salad. Chill and carry in one of the practical frigerator bags.

Seaside Buns
(6-8 sandwiches)

One-quarter cup mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 eggs, hard-cooked, ½ cup canned mackerel, drained, ¼ cup minced green pepper, ½ cup chopped celery, 6-8 frankfurter rolls, salad greens.

Blend mayonnaise, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice; stir in mashed hard-cooked egg yolks and minced egg whites; add mackerel, green pepper and ceelry. Line split frankfurter rolls with salad greens and fill with mixture. (Makes about 1½ cups filling.) Chill filled rolls; then wrap individually for carrying.

Mountain Picnic Salad
(Serves 6-8)

Six medium size potatoes, five frankfurters, 1 box lima beans, ⅔ cup diced celery, ¼ cup chopped onion, 1 cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons vinegar, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon thyme, ⅛ teaspoon marjoram, 1 teaspoon salt, dash pepper, salad greens.

Cook potatoes in jackets; cool, peel and dice. Parboil frankfurters; cool and slice. Cook lima beans according to directions on package; cool. Combine potatoes, frankfurters, lima beans, ceelry and onion. Blend mayonnaise with vinegar and spices and fold into salad mixture. Chill well before packing in insulated frigerator bag for carrying.

Combat Badge To Cpl. Salmons

WITH THE 1ST CAV. DIVISION IN KOREA—Cpl. Calvin T. Salmons, husband of Mrs. Edith V. Salmons, 301 East 25th, Sedalia, has been awarded the Combat Infantry Badge, a symbol of close-quarter fighting with the enemy.

He won the coveted award while serving with the 1st Calvary Division's 5th Regiment in Korea.

The badge, consisting of a miniature replica of a Revolutionary War flintlock mounted on a blue background and superimposed on a silver wreath, distinguishes the the actual fighting men from rear area and service troops.

Some animals can go for as much as 100 days without organic food, but die in from five to 10 day without water.

During their period of maximum growth, young birds consume more than their own weight in food every day, says the National Geographic Society. It a growing boy ate like that, he could eat two or three lambs every day.

Business Storm Signal: People Just Aren't Buying

They've 'Got No Money to Spare' Survey of Americans Discloses

SURPLUS OF STOCK (but not of customers) left storekeepers like this one surrounded by extra supplies they laid in to protect against expected shortages. Shortages not only failed to appear, but high prices have cut down consumer buying.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's the second of two dispatches that present the real picture of what inflation is doing today to your pocketbook, your savings, your living standards. It's not drawn by long-haired economic experts, but by ordinary Americans all over the land, surveyed by NEA reporters in major cities from coast to coast.

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1951, by NEA Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK — (NEA) —Pick up any business page today and you can read the storm signals. People aren't buying new or used cars the way they did. Relaxed credit limits failed to spur sagging sales of household goods. Houses, even old ones, are a drug on the market in many places. Butchers are looking for customers.

NEA's nation-wide survey of the effects of inflation spells out this story in individual terms. And it delves into the reasons why people today aren't buying with the same giddy enthusiasm they've showed most of the time since World War II ended.

In leading cities like New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Atlanta, Dallas, Los Angeles and San Francisco, reporters sought out people in all walks of life at all economic levels. One of the key questions they put was:

"Have you bought a new car, new furniture, new household appliances, such as a stove or refrigerator, or any new major item of clothing this year?"

By a thumping two to one margin, the answer was "no."

"No, we haven't bought anything," said a retired Cleveland metal worker living on social security. "Weve got no money to spare."

A midwestern woman who works in a war plant and whose husband is a sailor in Korean waters told the survey: "No, we're saving our money. Baby and I are staying with Mother while my husband is away in the Navy. But Mother has bought a TV set and some new rugs."

A Dallas housewife just said: "No major items purchased."

Most who fell into this category simply said "no" and let it go at that.

Of the one-third who reported they had made purchases within the last year, the largest percentage bought new cars. Furniture, TV sets and household appliances ran next in order. Clothing stood a poor last.

Economists and businessmen undoubtedly are looking at their statistical charts and poring over data on the amount of money in circulation, the size of the nation's bank deposits, the volume of installment buying, in search of explanations. But let a few citizens give their own version.

Almost 80 per cent of those who hadn't bought major items declared they just couldn't afford them any more. In this group, about a fourth specified "prices are too high" and some took especial note of credit restrictions. The rest expressed their problem bluntly but more generally: "No money."

A government secretary in Dallas pointed out rather plaintively: "I am still paying for last year's purchases."

Said a machinist in the same community: "Three kids in school take all my 'major item' money."

A Chicago cab driver commented: "I'm hoping prices will come down."

From a midwestern housewife came this complaint: "The original down payment is too large on installment buying."

A St. Louis dentist: "I have been waiting for prices to change. And new credit restrictions have made buying of large items tough."

In San Francisco, a postman sounded a little wistful: "I'd like to have all (major items), but salary doesn't permit."

An Atlanta housewife laughed at the question, then said her family was just about keeping its head above water.

NEA's reporters tossed another question in much the same vein, and drew answers that fit a similar pattern. The query was "Are you eating pork instead of beef because of high prices?"

More people said "no" than said "yes," but that didn't tell the story. Hardly a person asked did not volunteer either that he was cutting down on expensive beef, relying on cheaper cuts; switching to pork, or eating less meat generally and doing with fish and chicken instead.

Said that Cleveland metal worker: "We haven't eaten beef for over a year. I say "to Hell with it" when a pound of steak costs $1.14 and it's all bones and fat. We eat something else."

A housewife in St. Louis responded: "No, we haven't turned to pork. We're economizing on cheaper cuts of beef, and on chicken and fish."

Her counterpart in Los Angeles: "We went to pork at first, but we got so tired of it we've gone back to beef—but mostly hamburger."

A retired Californian hit a note of near-desperation: "Eating no meat and very little else." This same man commented later that his living standard is "already as low as it can get."

From a bus driver in a southern city: "Buying only the smallest needs of both pork and beef."

A machinist, also in the South: "I can't remember when I last had a good beef cut.

A midwestern salesman said: "We economize on all kinds of meat and buy fish instead. We use fish so much I think I could swim like one."

Here and there, the American's love of good meat showed plainly. A lot of people said: "We economize on food in other ways."

Said an Atlanta pensioner: "Using pork some, but refuse to give up steak once or twice a week."

And a fellow Atlantan replied: "Yes, we've turned to pork. But very reluctantly."

But the whole tone of the responses to NEA's survey indicated that, given a bigger dose of inflation in the future, more and more and more people will be doing without more and more of the things they want — however reluctantly.

S. Doradu—The Brightest Star

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—(AP)—The brightest star now known in the universe is S. Doradus, 500,000 times brighter than the sun. S. Doradus is far beyond the milky way, in the star family known as the large megellanic cloud. It is visible only in telescopes.

The biggest stars, which are not necessarily the brightest, all exceed the radius of the planet Jupiter's orbit. That is, if one of these stars replaced the sun, Jupiter, about 470,000,000 miles from the present sun, would be inside the star.

There are eight of this size or bigger. The very largest has a diameter of a billion seven hundred million miles. The calculations are by Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard College Observatory, in the journal, "Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences."

Suspect Smoking In Lung Cancer Increase

LONDON—(AP)—Britain's Medical Research Council is starting an inquiry to determine whether smoking may be responsible for an increase in cancer of the lungs.

The increase in the United Kingdom was called "rather alarming" by Hilary Marquand, minister of health. Marquand reported that in 1940, 2,121 men and 694 women died of cancer of the lungs. By 1949 the figures had increased to 3,720 men and 807 women.

The minister conceded that evidence is confusing, and that other factors besides smoking may have contributed.

A big hydroelectric program for developing power and irrigation facilities is getting under way in Italy's Tiber River basin where the ancient Romans made engineering history with bridges, aqueducts and drainage systems.

A-Bomb Effects On Teeth Studied

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—(AP)—The school of dentistry of the University of Pennsylvania is starting research to learn what effect A-bomb explosions have on the teeth, gums, and tissues of the mouth.

It is supported by a $35,000 grant from the Office of Naval Research. Bleeding of gums and other injuries to mouth tissues were one of the A-bomb effects on Japanese victims at Nagasaki and Hiroshima.

Dulles vs. Malik on a Treaty For Japan

Soviet Delegate Insisted on a Cloak And Dagger Setting

ON OPPOSITE SIDES: John Foster Dulles (left) and Russia's Jacob Malik, shown here as they faced each other in the delegate's lounge at the UN last October, also faced each other in "dark-of-the-night" meetings about Japan's treaty.

By Peter Edson
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Three times in the dark of night, John Foster Dulles met secretly with Russia's UN delegate, Jacob Malik, to discuss the proposed Japanese peace treaty.

The meetings were held during the 1950 fall meeting of the UN General Assembly. The cloak and dagger setting was at the insistence of Malik.

Twice they met at Dulles' New York home, the third time at Malik's Park avenue residence.

Malik, who understands English and speaks it fairly well, insisted upon being accompanied by an interpreter. When Dulles would talk, Malik would sit back with apparent unconcern until the interpreter gave him the Russian version. This gave him an opportunity to hear everything twice—twice as much time to think of an answer.

The first meeting was held Oct. 26. It lasted from 10:30 to 12:30 p.m. Dulles reviewed the preliminary seven points. They had previously leaked to the Aemrican press, so they were no surprise to Malik.

Dulles sought to explain the American treaty philosophy. In brief, this was that the best way to assure good international conduct by the Japanese was to bring Japan into the family of free nations as a partner.

He conceded that such a treaty would be a 50-50 gamble. He felt sure, however, that any other kind of peace would be 100 per cent sure to fail.

No country had shown any interest in enforcing a tough peace. The U.S. was the only country that had occupation forces in Japan.

The great danger was in a peace like Versailles—not tough enough to keep the enemy down, not liberal enough to make the enemy cooperate.

Dulles had been at that peace conference which terminated World War I. He knew.

This was the basic argument Dulles used with all 15 nations. Nearly all his listeners agreed with the theory but had some "but" to add. They wanted reparations, or the restrictions of fishing rites.

Malik was no exception. He didn't come right out and say so, but he indicated he didn't like the seven points. He didn't like the idea of not giving Formosa back to Red China. He didn't like the matter of Japanese rearmament left open. He wanted to know by what right the U.S. proposed trusteeship over Okinawa. He thought Red China should be consulted.

But at no time did he bring up the old propaganda line that the Big Four Foreign Ministers should write the treaty.

Dulles said it would be unwise to leave Japan totally disarmed. He explained that U.S. troops garrisoned on Japan after the peace treaty would not be armies of occupation. They would be there solely for the security of Japan.

Dulles explained that the U.S. did not recognize Red Chine, but that if Russia wanted to talk to that government it could go ahead. On the Ryukus (Okinawa) trusteeship, Dulles said simply and finally, "That's the proposal."

He said his hope was to produce a treaty that everyone could sign, that Russia had nothing to lose.

As the meeting broke up, Malik brought up an argument that the U.S. was surrounding Russia with a ring of bases. Dulles countered that the cause of fear of the Soviet Union was that it supported world revolution by force.

As they walked to the door, Malik made the statement that communism was a Russian doctrine and was not for export. Quoting from memory Stalin's book on Leninism, Ambassador Dulles verbally nailed Malik's statement to the door through which the Russian walked into the night.

The second meeting Nov. 20(lasted only 45 minutes. Malik made what seemed to be a desperate attempt to be friendly.

He asked about mutual acquaintances in Japan, avoided points of difference. But he handed Dulles a Russian text on six questions his government wanted answered.

Tomorrow: The last meeting with Malik.

Oatis Case Stirs Up a 30-Year-Old Mystery

Headlines May Turn Up Solution to Mother's Strange Disa ppearance

By DONNA MIKELS
NEA Special Correspondent

MARION, Ind. — (NEA) —The clamor over the imprisonment of Hoosier newsman William Oatis in Czechoslovakia may help solve the riddle Oatis was never able to fathom himself—the 30-year-old mystery of his mother's disappearance.

Relatives and friends in Oatis' home town feel sure that all the headlines on the reporter's arrest will either bring Mrs. Cora Eddy Oatis out of self-chosen anonymity, or produce someone who knows what really happened to her.

Already public interest in the Oatis case has turned up a report that Mrs. Oatis was alive and living in Indianapolis in 1929, eight years after her disappearance and a year after she was legally presumed dead.

If true, this shatters the theory accepted by her closest relatives that she fell ill and died on the West Coast the year of her disappearance, unable to get word back to her family.

Tragedy first touched the life of Bill Oatis when he was nine months old, in September, 1914.

MRS. CORA OATIS: Was she alive after being declared dead?

His brother, Ross, then about two, died in a tub of wash water into which he had fallen.

Perhaps it was this tragedy which set the bereaved mother adrift. When her husband went West a short time later, she left Bill with his grandmother in Marion and went to Indianapolis, where she worked during the war.

Shortly after the end of World War I she joined her husband in Arizona, hoping, her family thinks, to re-establish their home.

Faded but still preserved is a letter Mrs. Oatis wrote in July, 1921, saying she planned to leave Arizona to seek work in California. She added she wanted "to come home but am afraid I could not find work."

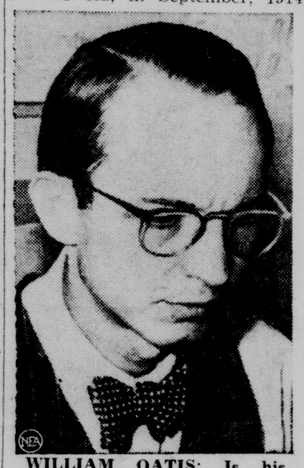
The next word was a telegram reporting she was in the hospital and asking funds. That December, she sent a Christmas card from Los Angeles, on which she wrote to her mother: "Some of these days when things adjust themselves I am coming home to see you."

After that there was silence. Her family sought in vain to trace her. An insurance firm which carried a small policy on Mrs. Oatis tried to track her down. But they never succeeded. After seven years she was declared dead.

That's where the mystery rested until after Bill Oatis' imprisonment in Czechoslovakia. Then one of his former junior high school teachers called a Marion newspaper and, in passing, gave some startling information.

In 1929, she said, she had taken Bill to an Indianapolis apartment house to see his mother. With another teacher, they were driving through the city, and Bill asked the teacher to stop at an address he had. They found his mother's name on the mail box, but she wasn't home. The apartment superintendent told them Mrs. Oatis was away at work, so they left.

Relatives knew Bill had searched endlessly for clues to his mother's whereabouts, but until now they never knew he had been "that close." Now the secrets of his search are locked up with him in Czechoslovakia, but the story of his imprisonment may still solve the mystery.



WILLIAM OATIS: Is his mother's secret locked up with him?
